Fear

Yesterday at our District 5450 Mid-Year President's Meeting in Denver, a speaker talked about R article "The Rewards of Risk" talked about people who are risk-averse – people who let their liv company, we encouraged nervous guests by telling them that they were afraid of what they didn their earlier fear. We instilled the confidence that they could do it.

Let me clarify my last scenario, running rivers can be darn scary. Standing on the hillside above I palatable. You can see it in our faces as we point to the rapid, shake our heads, and nervously w when you are standing there with a group of people that have confidence in you, you feel you car confidence. I flipped twice - the only time that I've ever flipped my boat.

Believing in one another goes a long way to reducing fear. When you believe in someone, amazi possible. A couple of RYLA junior counselors were also at the meeting yesterday. They talked at they are scared and shy to the end of the week when the kids are ready to conquer the world. B

As Rotarians, we believe we are making a difference. That's why even though it can sound scary Market and sell Ice Melt & Car Raffle Tickets, we gift money to our own charitable foundations, a $100,000 every year because we believe we can. And we do it together.
