The Main Event

MASSTC - The Massachusetts Alternative Septic System Test Center
David Ioriozzo – Septic Utility Manager
Bryan Horsley – MASSTC Project Assistant

Do unto those downstream as you would have those upstream do unto you.

They are a division of the Barnstable County Department of Health and Environment. They are partially funded by the county and also generate revenue from those that pay for services.

At the test center they work on research projects. Their primary goal is to find contaminant removal options.

At Shubael Pond in Marston Mills they are working to measure the groundwater footprint of clustered systems. They installed 13 nitro systems and some ground water wells and monitor to see if they are having significant impact.

Ecological Sanitation is where they analyze eco-sanitation practices for nutrient management benefits and work with regulators to approval pathways.

Barnstable County's Septic Utility Program goal to achieve better water quality. They provide services including permitting and installation, operation and monitoring, and long-term care of and IA system.

Kris Mathenney – DY Rising Star

A senior and has a passion for art. She hopes to continue this passion in college and hopes to become a cartoonist. Active in her band ensemble and she plays the violin. She is in the coding club. She is in AP drawing and with the help of Mass Hire she got an internship doing caricatures.

Interact

Jocelyn Lemke - President of the DY Regional High School Interact Club visited the club this morning. She updated the club on the activities that the interact Club has done. Currently they are working on a civic project to help combat the housing crisis. In addition they are working on the Milton Wolf Scholarship.

DEIB Information Corner

Last month, Yale University issued a formal apology for the links its early leaders and benefactors had with slavery.

Yale University Campus

The Asian Slave Trade

Since then, one name that has come under intense scrutiny, especially in India, is that of Elihu Yale, the man after whom the Ivy League university is named. Yale served as the all-powerful governor-president of the British East India Company in Madras in southern India (present-day Chennai) in the 17th Century and it was a gift of about £1,162 ($1,486) that earned him the honor of having the university named after him. "It's equivalent of £206,000 today if you adjust it for inflation," historian Prof Joseph Yannielli, who teaches modern history at Aston University in Birmingham and has studied Yale's links with the Indian Ocean slave trade, told the BBC. It was not an enormous sum by today's standards, but it helped the college construct an entirely new building.

A former student at Yale, Prof Yannielli's main research is slavery and abolition, with a special focus on America, West Africa, and the wider world during the nineteenth century. He first started digging into Elihu Yale's association with slave trading over a decade ago when he came across an image of the governor being waited upon by a collared slave.

18th Century painting of Elihu Yale (center) in which he's seen with a child slave.

That famous painting, he says, is one of the most damning pieces of evidence that connects Yale to slavery. Dated between 1719 and 1721, it shows Yale with three other white men being served by a "page" - a term that generally means a servant but, in this case, a euphemism for a slave. "Slavery was ubiquitous in England at the time. It's not clear whether he owned the slave himself or was it a member of his family [who was the owner]. But the presence of the child in the frame, serving him and others wine, shows that slavery was integrated into his day-to-day life."

Elihu Yale, often described as a connoisseur and collector of fine things and a philanthropist who generously donated to churches and charities, is now in focus as a colonialist who plundered India and - worse - traded in slaves. The university's apology comes after more than three years of investigation into its dark past. Led by Yale historian David Blight, a team of researchers delved into the "university's history with slavery, role of slaves in construction of a Yale building, or whose labor enriched prominent leaders who made gifts to Yale", the university said in a statement. The apology was accompanied by the release of a 448-page book - Yale and Slavery: A history - by Prof Blight, that gives an insight into just how much Elihu Yale profited from slavery.

The investigation of this past is important. Prof Yannielli says the Atlantic slave trade saw 12 million people sold over 400 years. The Indian Ocean trade, he believes, was bigger, and covered a much larger geographical area, linking Southeast Asia with the Middle East and Africa - and went on for much longer. "The Indian Ocean slave trade, which eventually matched the Atlantic slave trade in size and scope, did not become extensive until the 19th Century. But on the Indian subcontinent, the trade in human beings was very old," he writes, adding that Yale "oversaw many sales, adjudications, and accountings of enslaved people for the East India Company".

Founded in 1701, Yale is the third-oldest institution of higher learning in the United State and counts a number of US presidents among its alumni. It's well documented that starting in 1713, Elihu Yale sent hundreds of books on theology, literature, medicine, history and architecture, a portrait of King George I, fine textiles, and other valuable gifts to the Collegiate School of Connecticut. The money raised by selling them was used to construct a new three-story building which was named Yale College in his honor. Historian and family member Rodney Horace Yale who wrote a biography of Elihu Yale in the 19th Century says his "donation made the precarious existence of Yale college a blessed certainty". It also bought Yale immortality as the university perpetuates his name.

Born in Boston in April 1649, Elihu Yale moved with his family to England when he was three. He arrived at Fort St George, the White colony in Madras, as a young man in 1672 with a clerical job with East India Company. The salaries offered by the company were "notoriously and ludicrously small - from the governors at £100 a year down to the apprentices' at £5", Rodney Horace Yale wrote. He and other historians say its employees engaged in all sorts of trading of their own for private profit. Over a quarter of a century, Yale rose through the ranks, finally being appointed the governor-president in 1687 - a job he did for five years until 1692, when he was sacked for "using company funds for private speculation, arbitrary government and neglecting duty". In 1699 when he returned to England, the 51-year-old was a hugely wealthy man. He built "a stately home" in Queen's Square on Great Ormond Street and filled it with arts and artefacts of great value.

Upon his death in July 1721, British papers described him as "a gentleman known for his extensive charity". But historians say he was also known during his time in Madras for his cruelty and greed. Elihu Yale arrived at Fort St George, the British colony in Madras, as a young man in 1672 with a clerical job with the East India Company. His successors accused him of corruption and unusual deaths of several of the council members when he was governor and, on one occasion, he was accused of ordering the hanging of one of his stable grooms "for riding a favorite horse of his without his permission", Rodney Horace Yale wrote. The historian says there's some doubt about the evidence in the case but adds that it does not "disagree with his character". "His surroundings must be his most effective defense for a record of arrogance, cruelty, sensuality and greed while in power at Madras," he wrote. But Rodney Horace Yale glosses over his ancestor's role in the slave trade - something that many other biographers of Elihu Yale and recent historians are also accused of doing.

Prof Yannielli, who's combed through the colonial records of Fort St George, says "it's all there in black and white" and there's no denying that "Elihu Yale was an active and successful slave trader". Prof Yannielli wouldn't hazard a guess on how much money Yale made from slavery because it "ebbed and flowed" and also because he traded in other things such as diamonds and textiles which made "it hard to disentangle the profits he made from each trade". But, he believes, it was quite a substantial chunk of his fortune. "I can say his capacity to make money was enormous. He was in charge of directing the Indian Ocean slave trade. In the 1680s, a devastating famine [in southern India] led to a labor surplus and Yale and other company officials took advantage of it, buying hundreds of slaves and shipping them to the English colony on Saint Helena," he told me. Yale, he adds, "participated in a meeting that ordered a minimum of 10 slaves sent on every ship going to Europe. In just one month in 1687, Fort St George exported at least 665 slaves. As governor-president of the Madras settlement, Yale enforced the 10- slaves-per-vessel rule".

How did the Black Lives Matter movement affect this historical research?

Prof Yannielli says the reason why some of Yale's earlier biographers have underplayed his links to slavery could be because of a lack of access to historical material in the past. But since detailed minutes of East India Company's meetings are now available digitally, the more recent scholars who have chosen to overlook the evidence is "because either they didn't want to see it or may not have considered it important in the pre-Black Lives Matter era". Prof. Yannielli also rubbishes claims that Yale was an abolitionist who ordered prohibiting slave trade from Madras when he was governor. "Saying that he actually ended slavery is an attempt to burnish his image. If you look at the original documents, it was India's Mughal ruler who told the company to shut it down. But Yale was back at it soon, ordering transport of slaves from Madagascar to Indonesia a year later. "Resistance to slavery and imperialism started in the 15th Century and there were abolitionists. But Yale definitely wasn't one."

How did Yale Respond to this Historical Research?

In its apology, Yale University said it would "work to enhance diversity, support equity and promote an environment of welcome, inclusion, and respect" and undertake work to "advance inclusive economic growth in New Haven" where 30% of the population is Black. But it did not say that a name change was on the cards - and it has rejected calls in the past to do so.

At the same time this research came to light, Yale was also accused of admissions discrimination against whites and Asians, and sued in 2021, along with Harvard and the U. of North Carolina, by Students for Fair Admissions. When the Supreme Court agreed to hear the Admissions Case, the Yale suit was stayed. Since the court's judgement, which eliminated race being used as a deciding factor in admissions, Yale has consulted with its students and stakeholders, and drafted new admissions guidelines to attract a diverse student body. Yale's new guidelines satisfied the plaintiffs, and the suit was dropped.

The court ruling does not prohibit application reviewers from considering an applicant's discussion of how race affected the applicant's life, so long as that discussion is concretely tied to a quality of character or unique ability. Yale is now using a "whole person" review process that considers each applicant as an individual and examines what they personally have to offer to the Yale community.

SHARING YOUR DEIB MOMENT

A goal of our Club's DEIB Committee for the 2023-2024 Rotary year is to continue to have a Club member share their DEIB moment during our Club meetings held on the 2nd and 4th Friday of each month. Our weekly Rotary meetings are a safe place and time for all to share their personal experiences on diversity, equity, inclusion and belonging.

If you are interested in presenting your DEIB moment to our membership during a Club meeting, please contact Ann Knell to sign up and schedule a date to share your DEIB moment.

DEIB Committee Members: Rufus Jones (Chair), Bruce Gordon, Bill Boyd, Jane Cain, Hollie Handrahan, Ann Knell, Frank Mastromauro, Joe Potzka, Sara Grambach

HELP WANTED: Needed one to three club members that can share the duties of writing the articles for the weekly TGIFY. Tomas has been doing a lot of the writing this past year but has taken on other duties in the club. Steve Albright has been doing the layout, finding additional information/stories and publishing the TGIFY for the past 12 years and will continue to do this but cannot take on the additional job of writing. To volunteer or find out additional information contact Tomas or Steve. If nobody steps up to volunteer it could mean the end of or major changes to the TGIFY. In addition, the DEIB committee has been providing weekly submissions for the newsletter and we have a DEIB speaker every other week so the workload has increased.

COVID & CORKS—Wine cork recycling benefits our earth's sustainability. The Rotary Club of Yarmouth keeps on collecting corks and to date we have shipped at least 10 boxes of corks to be recycled and then upcycled. Funded by the Widget Company, Cork Club is a sustainability initiative started in 2007. The goal of the Cork Club is to grow wine cork recycling and make donations to causes that protect our oceans and forests. The Cork Club donates to non-profit entities that clean plastic from our oceans, prevent deforestations and teach better ways to live in harmony with our environment. To date Cork Club has donated $121,800 to these projects. For each natural cork, 2 cents is donated. Synthetic corks are recycled properly. So enjoy your wine and save the corks. All corks can be given to Jill Albright who will then ship them to Cork Club. KEEP THOSE CORKS COMING!!!!

Crutches 4 Africa - Collection of items for the Crutches 4 Africa is an ongoing project, Lou Preziosi has taken over the leadership of this program.

If you, your relatives, friends or neighbors have any mobility devices please collect them and turn them in at the Yarmouth Transfer Station or the Boy Scout Office. You can also reach out to Lou if you need them picked up. Watch for people throwing them out when you visit the transfer station yourself. I saw someone discarding 3 great canes and was able to rescue them before they went into the dumpster.

Thank you to Roby for allowing us to use a storage container at the Yarmouth Waste Facility.

MEALS ON WHEELS – Currently Meals on Wheels is experiencing a shortage of drivers for the delivery of daily meals. If you have a couple of hours one day a week and can volunteer to deliver meals for them, please contact the Elder Services Group at the Yarmouth Senior Center. They are there Monday – Friday from 9 -11. These deliveries are in addition to the service that we provide them through our weekly deliveries on Tuesday.

The Rotary Foundation:

Any time of the year is always a great time to make a contribution to the Rotary Foundation. You can designate the Annual Fund, Polio Plus where your contribution will be matched by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation 2 to 1, or you can choose any of the seven areas of Focus to designate your contribution to. For more information or how to donate to the Rotary Foundation, please feel free to speak with Steve Albright who chairs the Rotary Foundation Committee for our cub.

Rotary is a global network of 1.4 million neighbors, friends, leaders, and problem-solvers who see a world where people unite and take action to create lasting change – across the globe, in our communities, and in ourselves.

Ask a relative, a friend, a neighbor, a business associate or a co-worker to join us so we all can do more in our community and our world.

Our last game of the Queen of Hearts ended last week when Hollie Handrahan pulled the Queen from the deck. Not too hard to do when it was the last card in the deck. For her hard work she took home $2,193. We start all over this week with a new deck of cards.

The New Jackpot starts over at:
$0.00 plus this weeks Pot $$$

CAPE COD BRITE LIGHTS

Cape Cod Brite Lights a501c(3) corporation that was started by our Rotary Club is now in it's third year. Its mission is "to help those in need on Cape Cod. "Our main focus to date has been to provide weekend backpacks of nutritional food for needy elementary students in the DY School System. A backpack of food consists of shelf stable milk (white & chocolate), juice carton, cereal, instant oatmeal, two proteins which could be a can of tuna, chicken, pasta, soup or beef stew, a cup of apple sauce, macaroni and cheese, Nutra grain fruit granola bar, cheese its, fruit snacks, pudding cup and 2 pieces of fruit. In addition, to give each student some activities to do during the holiday break we put a coloring book and crayons in each bag. We started with a total of 25 students but have grown to 45, an increase of over 80%. In addition, with the assistance of Interact we have started to provide the school nurse with feminine products for high school girls. In addition we will be providing students in need with bags of hygiene products during the upcoming school year. The Interact Club has applied for a District Grant to support this project.

How you can help:

First: Currently we have a board of directors of 11 members. Our bylaws allow us to have a maximum number of 13. If you would like to be a part of our leadership, please contact Steve Albright.

Second: We fill the backpacks and bags of food every Wednesday night at 5:30PM at the Yarmouth Food Pantry. If you would like to help one or two nights a month, again please contact Steve Albright. Currently we have enlisted the local Girl Scout Troop to help on the first Wednesday of each month and the DY Interact Club to help on the third Wednesday of each month. We are trying to make it a community organization where anybody can be a part of it.

Third: It costs $300—$350 yearly to support one child's backpack and although we don't have a total figure on the hygiene project, we know that the items provided are costly. You can make a donation to support these two projects by sending your check to:

Cape Cod Brite Lights—PO Box 286, West Yarmouth, MA 02673-0286

Or you can visit our website at Capecodbritelightsinc.com and make a contribution with your credit or debit card. In addition you can now sign up to make monthly donations to Brite Lights. A smaller amount each month makes it much easier. Visit our Website.

Fourth: Visit our website and learn more about us. Capecodbritelightsinc.com

Crutches For Africa

A Continuous Project by Yarmouth Rotary Club

Crutches for Africa is not a new project to our Rotary Club. We as a club have done collections for this great service and International project twice before. The first time we collected over 700 mobility devices and the second time we collected over 400 mobility devices. We are now hoping to set this up as an ongoing project. Mike Riley along with members of the International Committee are heading this project up but we would like all Yarmouth Rotarians to help out. Search for any of the desired items in your home, your extended families homes and your neighbors homes. Round up all of the devices and drop them off at the transfer station where we have a storage trailer to store them. They can be dropped off at the gate house just before you drop off your trash and recyclables. If you need help please give Mike Riley a call or send him a text to arrange pickup of your items. All of the items collected will be shipped to Africa to help disabled individuals gain mobility that they never have had.

Items that we are looking to collect include: Leg Braces; Crutches; Forearm Crutches; Walkers; Wheelchairs; Prosthetic Limbs; Baby Joggers and Strollers and Bike Trailers. No Commodes or any other type of Personal Hygiene Equipment.

(Also No Electric Wheelchairs or other types of devices.)
