Rotarian of the Week: John Kimball

Professor Tara Cusack

Associate Professor, University College Dublin, School of Public Health, Physiotherapy and Sports Science. Prof. Cusack currently leads the EU Horizon 2020 funded project: “Chameleons: CHampioning A Multi-sectoral Education and Learning Experience to Open New pathways for doctoral Students,” which includes academics and industry partners from myriad fields who have a shared interest in Connected Health.

Tara currently serves as a Fulbright Research Scholar at George Mason University, where she conducts research with GMU faculty to examine the value of interdisciplinary doctoral supervision in terms of broadening employment horizons for doctoral graduates following completion of their studies.

Tonight she will discuss the Fulbright Program, how its ethos has enabled her to broaden her understanding of doctoral education while building her research network beyond Europe and making new contacts here in the U.S.
