LAST WEEK'S PROGRAM

DID YOU KNOW? Veterans Day was initially called Armistice Day in recognition of "the war to end all wars" (WWI) ending on 11th month, 11th day, and 11th hour, in 1918.

Our Veterans Day Program, provided by our own Chris White, featured this special historical narrative on one of the major military engagements in the Battle of the Bulge (WWII) and some of the heroes involved:

The Battle for Elsenborn Ridge: Heroes Known and Unknown

JIMMY WHITE WITH WIFE PATSY

Chris recounted how the fight for Elsenborn Ridge was the deadliest battle in U.S. military history - over 5,000 servicemen lost their lives in the 18-hour action - and perhaps one of the most consequential actions of the Battle of the Bulge. While facing superior numbers and armor, the soldiers of two U.S. divisions, the 99th and the 2nd, fought ferociously and courageously against overwhelming numbers of Germany's best infantry and tanks to deny their enemy access to the principal route to their objective. Medal citations and histories name some of the American heroes, but in the final analysis, all those who fought so ferociously those first three days were heroic in their unflinching courage and selfless sacrifice. To frame the presentation with a personal perspective, Chris shared the story of his Dad, Jimmy White, and Jimmy's experience of being captured while on patrol on the first night of the battle.
