President and soon to a new mother, Danielle Stroud leads us in “The Pledge”, today was club assembly most of the time this is not one of the best addended meetings, but this meeting was different we had the best attendance ever . Our club has established a program in which we get to know each other and today it was our own Dennis McGee “aka” Mr. Handyman. Dennis was most entertaining with his tails of how he became a Rotarian and his life story from his humble beginnings, early childhood in South Philadelphia, to going to Penn State and on to a job were he was able to with the help of the company , he was able to get his degree . He told of his many travels for busness around the world and how when ever he came home the appreciation he felt to be an American. With the economic down turn in 2008 he was laid off, with advice from his sister he took on a “Mr Handyman” franchise and has found it very satisfying. He joined us in earlier this year. His talk was very interesting and well presented.

Chairman of Youth services Bob Bredin presents a check to the Principal of The Fruitland Park Elementary to expand our program called “Harold's Kids” providing clothing for kids in need. 87 % of the children in Fruitland Park Elementary School, are receiving some form of government assistance. Chairman Bob also presented a check for “Tudors for Kids” program and recognizes some of those who volunteer with tutoring.

Chris Semans talks to us about how the “Antibullying Program” has taken off world wide- and how we can help to make it grow . President Elect Randy talks about upcoming programs and the need for our support. Below: Banner Swap for visiting Rotarians.

Update on Polio

A story about Polio and Nigeria

Musa Muhammed Ali, a farmer in Borno state, Nigeria, has had to deal with the many ways polio has affected his life. For instance, he used to have to pay for transportation when he needed to buy feed for his animals. But after receiving a hand-operated tricycle funded through Rotary's PolioPlus grants, Ali can now spend that money on other necessities. His life was changed by the "plus" in PolioPlus.

When we talk about PolioPlus, we know we are eradicating polio, but do we realize how many added benefits the program brings? The "plus" is something else that is provided as a part of the polio eradication campaign. It might be a hand-operated tricycle or access to water. It might be additional medical treatment, bed nets, or soap. A 2010 study estimates that vitamin A drops given to children at the same time as the polio vaccine have prevented 1.25 million deaths by decreasing susceptibility to infectious diseases.

Polio vaccination campaigns are difficult to carry out in northern Nigeria, where the Boko Haram insurgency has displaced millions of people, leading to malnutrition and spikes in disease. When security allows, health workers diligently work to bring the polio vaccine and other health services to every child, including going tent to tent in camps for displaced people. The health workers pictured here are in Maiduguri, the capital of Borno, where the insurgency began 10 years ago.

The Global Polio Eradication Initiative (GPEI), of which Rotary is a spearheading partner, funds 91 percent of all immunization staff in the World Health Organization's Africa region. These staff members are key figures in the fight against polio — and other diseases: 85 percent give half their time to immunization, surveillance, and outbreak response for other initiatives. For example, health workers in Borno use the polio surveillance system, which detects new cases of polio and determines where and how they originated, to find people with symptoms of yellow fever. During a 2018 yellow fever outbreak, this was one of many strategies that resulted in the vaccination of 8 million people. And during an outbreak of Ebola in Nigeria in 2014, health workers prevented that disease from spreading beyond 19 reported cases by using methods developed for the polio eradication campaign to find anyone who might have come in contact with an infected person.

The Four Way Test

Of the things

We think say or do

1. Is it the truth?
2. Is it fair to all concerned?
3. Will it build goodwill and better Friendships?
4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?
5. Will it be FUN?
