Gregg D.

What is the pirate's favorite letter? You think it is R, it is the C.

Tom D.

This story involves Phil, as he is walking across the street and gives a wave. Just as he stepped off the curb, Phil picked up the pace and Phil got pervious as the car changed lanes and then Phil froze. The car closed in on him and then the car screeched at him. Squirrel behind the wheel yelled, "It is not so easy!"

Jim M.

He tried to find appropriate Rotary jokes. None before the 1980's. He tried to find about roundabouts because rotary does not work.

What do you call a remote meeting if you are a Mazda? Zoom Zoom

Frank Murray, President of Salem Cooperative Bank was telling jokes at different times at a former Rotary Club. Chocolate joke, bad punchline - joke was trying to tell Frank to get him to tell a joke.

Malcolm M.

St. Peter and the devil were looking at the pearly gates and noticing that they were in disrepair and someone needed to repair them. The devil said to St. Peter that he did such a poor job and since he did a bad job they needed repair. They got together and negotiations did not go well. Finally St. Peter said, I am going to hire a lawyer and make you fix it. The devil said where are you going to find a lawyer in heaven?

Cate R.

Before Covid, the office had a lunch with a name on it and I would eat one with Kevin.

Japanese and French jokes

Gregg D.

Out golfing with Malcolm and Jerry, when Jerry hit a golf ball into the woods at Cochecho. All walked up and looked for the ball. After 5 minutes, they figured it was lost. Jerry then said he found it and held up the ball and said he would take one drop and hit the ball toward the green. Malcolm was not happy and said he would never play again, as he said Jerry cheats and lies, as Malcolm had Jerry's ball in his pocket.

Doug L.

Had headaches and going to acupuncture as it was helping and had a good dream about the pearly gates. As he dreamt and went through pearly gates, St. Peter said go into the room with this chalk and write down all your bad things you have done. He wrote all that he could remember and as he was leaving, Tom D. came into the room and said, "Why are you here?" Tom said he had to come back for more chalk.

Nancy B.

Moses, Jesus and an old man went to a golf tournament. Moses hit and the ball landed on the green. Then Jesus hits and kneels down as it landed 2 feet from the green. The old man hits the ball and it hits a fish, the eagle picks up the fish, flies across the green, and the eagle drops the ball into the hole. Next time they go out golfing, they said that they were going to leave dad at home.

Jay S.

A father-in-law said to him after he was with a couple having a house built. They were walking through the house and they started to pick the colors. The blue color was for the son they would have at some point, the father-in-law then runs to the window and yells green side up. They go to the next room and they said they would paint that one pink for the daughter that they would have at some point, the father in law then runs to the window and yells green side up. They go to the master bedroom and they pick out a cream color, the father-in-law then goes to the window and yells green side up. After going through the house, the couple said we gave you colors and each time, you went to the window and yelled green side up. Why was that? He said that the landscapers were a French company and have to remind them of which side up.

Betsey A-P.

She received a call from the principal at the High School about a video that was being shared around. The principal was not sure if her freshman, Dan, had seen the video, yet suggested that she may want to discuss. She asked Dan, do you want to talk about the video? It was a great time to talk about the video, so later they went in a separate room. She told him it was really, really bad, and if I say something that may have happened, he could tell her. She described the scenario and said, what bad people would do that? After her explicit description, she found out that it wasn't really, really bad after all. They are still laughing to this day about it.

A year ago, she parked her car and was coming down Central Avenue from the back of the building. As she walked, people were honking and she figured that they must have recognized her. What she finally realized was that her skirt was tucked into her waistband and her white granny panties were showing for the world to see. Remember to always push clothes down when walking down Central Avenue.

Kathy F.

Sorry I missed her story.

Peter W.

Sorry I missed the funeral joke.

Meg K.

The story begins in 1996 in 2nd grade. Her elementary school was an open concept, no walls. It was a first crush on Robert Kilpatrick, and she sneezed and farted very loud. She played it off like she did not fart, yet everyone was laughing and she started crying. It disrupted everyone, remember no walls. She finally stopped crying and her first crush, said that it really stunk and we did not live happily ever after.

Phil R.

What letter is not in the alphabet? The ones in the mail.

What did one toilet say? You look about flushed.

Tongue twister. Sorry I missed it

Marion C.

At a graveside service, we were traveling with family from the viewing to the cemetery when we noticed a florist van. A kid got out and looked flustered. He took out a large arrangement and took the cover and the sash says "grand opening" today. Everyone laughs and she was a jokester and that they knew that she was going to visit them at some point. Come to find out, the flower arrangement with the banner "rest in peace", ended up at the Grand Opening of a mattress warehouse.

Kathy L.

Sorry missed the first one

Why did the strawberry cross the road? Because of a traffic jam.
