Breakfast Speaker for 10 September 2013: Emma Lucia

Emma Lucia will speak on 'Climateworks and Australia's Progress towards a Low Carbon Economy'

ClimateWorks Australia is an independent, research-based, non-profit organization created by the Myer Foundation and Monash University five years ago to drive action on climate change.

ClimateWorks has built a reputation as a trusted, credible and fact-based broker by working in partnership with leaders from the private, public and non-profit sectors, to catalyse reductions in greenhouse gas emissions in Australia. From the Low Carbon Growth Plan for Australia to regional work and industry partnerships ClimateWorks utilises robust and innovative research to build practical analysis and solutions to cut emissions in fast cost-effective ways.

In July, ClimateWorks launched the Tracking Progress report series quantifying how much progress Australia has made towards 2020 emission reduction targets. This research, the first of its kind, has been conducted across different sectors of economy and includes analysis of emission reduction activities in the Power, Industry, Buildings, Land Use and Waste sectors as well as the impact of these activities on the Australian economy as a whole. In addition a special investigation on energy efficiency practices of large industrial companies was undertaken, to explore the drivers and barriers for these activities.

This presentation will cover the key findings of this important research and outline how Australia is 40 per cent of the way towards the bi-partisan target of 5% emission reductions by 2020. Since joining ClimateWorks in January 2013, Emma co-authored the Buildings report of the Tracking Progress series, covering commercial and residential buildings as well as distributed energy. She undertook analysis of emissions reduction activities, and conducted interviews with key experts and businesses in this sector.

Prior to joining ClimateWorks, Emma worked at Johnson Controls providing energy efficiency and distributed energy solutions across the public and private sectors. Prior to this, she worked in building services consulting as a Mechanical and Environmentally Sustainable Design engineer. Emma was selected to participate in an international collaboration project for young engineers focusing on sustainable solutions for daily life in urban regions presented at the World Engineering Convention in Geneva.

Roy Garret provided an update of the projects run by the International Service Committee - it looks a if everything is taking shape and the club can be proud of its engagement.

Sergeant's Session

Michael Bromby most 'eloquently' responded to the critique of our club's poem and Kay and Robin Stevens continued the epic with the following four verses:

'The wench she doth appear the same as lady now departed
Whose secret was a twin, who jealous and cold hearted
Tore apart their love as sisters through vengeful act of spite
To hire the warriors to loose the wheel that killed her twin outright.'

Dragon Boat: Dining Delight

Posted by Tony Thomas

Our club's coffers benefited by $2500 or so from Yanpu Zhang's Dragon Boat dinner in the city last Friday night.

Forty members and friends were treated to Yanpu's menu and she even went to the fishmarket on Friday morning to buy the salmon for the steamed salmon dish. "It must be as fresh as possible," Yanpu explains. She said the evening had been a team organisation with big contributions from members including President Doug, David Jones and Herb Greenwood.

The menu was mouth-watering even to read, let alone eat. There were for entrees spring rolls and sesame prawns, honey-glazed walnuts, barbecue pork pieces and steam dumplings; the mini-mains included water-cashew nuts wrapped in lettuce and combined soup. The main dishes were Peking duck, citron chilli prawns, honey-glazed beef, deep fried chicken in sweet and sour sauce, the gorgeous salmon and finally traditional banana fritters and ice cream and fortune cookies with strawberry and kiwi fruit. Yanpu also organised the wines and drinks.

The raffles went well with six bottles of wine, and two envelopes of vouchers, raising $300.

This year, Yanpu decided to "engage" more fully through a special dinner, organised as a thank-you to the club for all the enjoyment it has given her to be a member.

Yanpu was sincerely thanked after the meal, and we presented her with a classic Chinese gift, a box of preserved dates. She was ably assisted by club members fine tuning the evening plans during the preceding month, which extended to organising special name tags. What a delightful evening!

"THE GREATEST IS LOVE" - NEW RCCMS-SPONSORED PLAY!

New play probes love and separation

Two of Melbourne's celebrated actors, Glenda Linscott (the bikie chick from Prisoner) and entertainer/broadcaster, Roland Rocchiccioli, will star in his new play 'The Greatest is Love' on Sunday, October 20.

The play, at the Melbourne Town Hall at 3pm, is a sweeping but simple love story. It starts in war-torn England in 1941, takes in the fall of Singapore, and ends in Perth WA in 1997.

The play follows one couple, Rupert and Diana, through poignant love letters probing the pain of separation during the war and the heart-wrenching struggle to return to normality afterwards. The letters tell a story of unfolding romance, and later, breathtaking honesty as the man and woman confront their human weaknesses.

Rocchiccioli says, "This is a story which proves – above all else – The Greatest is Love."

This is the first Australian performance of the play, following its launch at Brighton, UK, to critical acclaim. Leading UK theatre director Sean Mathias says, "I turned every page of the script with excitement and fascination. I wanted to know every move, every thought, every detail about these two people. By the time I reached the end I would have fought off any other director who tried to take the play over from me."

The play is presented by the Rotary Club of Central Melbourne-Sunrise with the support of the City of Melbourne. Proceeds support Melbourne charities.

Tickets: A Reserve $60 : B Reserve $48.
