Alistair Wenn – Senior Principal Landscape Architect

"What exactly is Landscape Architecture"

Alistair has been a Landscape Architect for twenty years and for the past 15 years he has practiced with Tract Consultants, a leading national firm specializing in: planning, urban design and landscape architecture. He is currently a Senior Principal and Manager of the firm's Melbourne office and its 130 plus staff.

Alistair has worked in the private sector for over fifteen years and during that time he has been involved in the project management and constructed delivery a range of private sector projects including: residential communities, golf course development, public open space, sporting facilities, aged care and retirement, institutional and landscape planning projects and wetland design.

Alistair will discuss the breadth of Tract's planning and design work in shaping some of Australia's most recognizable places and the role that integrated planning and design plays in Melbourne's livability and sustainability.

Shane Scanlan - Director Hyperlocal News

"Defying gravity with hyper-local print publications"

Shane Scanlon of the Docklands News talked of the success of this very locally focused newspaper that he and a small team produce weekly doing everything except the actual printing themselves.

They have three mastheads, Docklands News, Southbank News and the CBD News and concentrate on local affairs and events. Their online presence is a minor part of their business.

They are very independent editorially unafraid of tackling local issues such as the Queen Victoria Market redevelopment and are happy to receive content from local organisations and clubs. Distribution is done via various channels to reach apartment dwellers, cafés and city offices.

Shane believes the local content is key to their survival and in that respect, they have no competition.

BUNNINGS BBQs

Peter and Sue Duras have been the driving force behind a series of Bunnings' BBQs during the past year, which have raised just over $9,000 to support our club's activities and provided opportunities to explain the service activities that Rotary and our club are involved in.

As a result of Peter's ability to organize the key ingredients (i.e. bread, sausages, onions, sauce, serviettes, drinks and volunteers) at short notice, Bunnings Port Melbourne and Bunnings Collingwood have offered us far more opportunities than were previously envisaged.

During the recent BBQ at Bunnings Collingwood, Sue and Peter were able to serve some very enthusiastic customers.

Well done to Peter and Sue and every member who has supported this activity!

MEETING REPORT, TUESDAY 12th JUNE

Posted by Alan SEALE

Chair: Mary Voice

Visitors:

- Stuart Cardell (RC Southbank)
- Brenton Taylor (Nev's brother)
- Richard Bowen (former member)

Announcements:

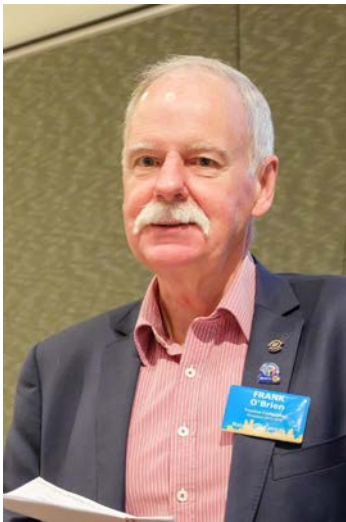

- President Elect Neville Taylor reminded members about Club Changeover on June 29 and noted that 23 members have yet to register. Neville also reminder us about the Kickstart Meeting on June 17.
- Peter Duras reported on the uptake of the shoes donated by Caprice
- President Frank noted that Geoffrey Tan who assisted with our charity auction was awarded an OAM on the Queens Birthday weekend.
- President Frank also reported on the Echuca Steam Rally and introduced Flavia who recounted her experience shearing a lamb and dispensing more jam and cream onto scones than she has ever dreamed of.
- Brenton Taylor, our visitor from Echuca, thanked the club for its ongoing hands on support for the Steam Rally. He also described how his team of five Clydesdales featured in the event demonstrating how these magnificent animals powered much of the machinery used on the land such as loading and towing timber jinkers, wool balers, etc.
