CELEBRATE—ROTARY IS A GIFT

Program: Don Palm, Dean, Davis Center and Interim Dean, West Sacramento Center, Sacramento City College

Don Palm said the trick in life is to get paid to do what you love to do. As an educator, he is doing what he loves with the West Sacramento Center for the Los Rios Community College system. The Center began in the early 1990's in West Sacramento. The new Center on Capital Avenue opened January 2010. The Center offers general education classes that can be transferred to a 4-year university; career and technical education; full services (counseling, registration, financial aid, and job searching); outreach to high schools. It is also a part of the Yolo County and the City of West Sacramento. The Center draws people from throughout the region. The center has a very diverse population by ethnicity and nearly 50% of those enrolled are first generation college students. The Center is looking forward to expanding both in physical space and in programs. A big goal is to increase the number of students eligible to transferring to the UC system. In addition, the Center wants to expand it's cooperation with UC Davis and the West Sacramento Unified School District. The only significant issue with the Center is parking. The city has helped by increasing parking in the area. In addition, the Center is located directly by the Yolobus, transit center.

VOCATIONAL CORNER

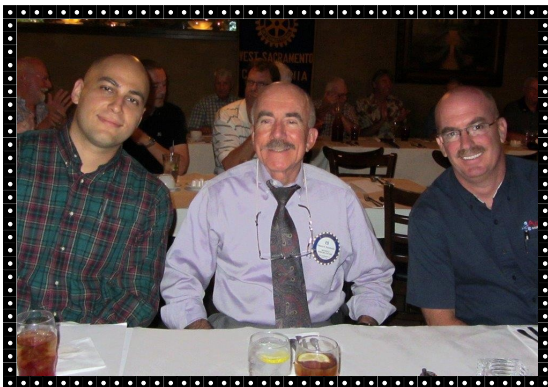

By Drew Gidlof, Vocational Service

This week's vocational corner article is the first of a two part series featuring two Rotarians who hold the honor of being father and son Rotarians.

Tom Wallace started out after college graduation with what is now Caltrans but decided to change professions after 4 years.

He returned to Georgia Tech and obtained a masters degree in civil engineering, majoring in soil mechanics. After 21 years with a local Sacramento firm he and a partner formed Wallace Kuhl in West Sacramento. Soon, soil engineering became geotechnical engineering, allowing them to charge more for their services because no one knew what that word meant but figured it must be important. The scope of services includes testing of all construction materials and processes along with soil conditions for support of structures. In the late 1980's environmental engineering became the rage as everyone thought the world had to be cleaned up to restore its "pristine" condition. So they added that field to their scope of services. Tom had been delighted that there is an almost unlimited supply of soil to test. When he found out that air testing was to be added to their scope of services he was blown away, as there is even more air than soil. Tom was brought into Rotary by Bill Merwin, who was a farmer, so both of them had found out how to make a living with dirt. John Raney is in the same line of work as Tom was and they worked together for a short time years ago.

4 Way Test

Of the Things we Think, Say or Do:

1. Is it the TRUTH?
2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOODWILL and better FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

Future Rotarian: Lily He

Lily He is a graduating senior of Class of 2014. She has been a member of Interact for two years. This year, Lily will be the club president. Lily has chaired the Halloween Carnival and the Reading Buddies Program. This year she will continue to chair these programs, along with the guest speakers' meetings. Lily is striving to attend Stanford University. This has been her dream school for years. She is interested in being a designer; either of biotechnology or as an architect. Lily has dedicated her effort into making Interact stronger by organizing the system more effectively, recruiting more new members, and expanding the club's activities. Lily believes that better communication with other members is essential to providing Interact a stronger base. She has helped develop leadership skills of younger classmates. By shadowing Kimberly for this past year and experiencing a week at RYLA Camp, Lily has matured as a leader. She will continue to make more improvements to the club. Lily's favorite moments are the Halloween Carnival and the Spring Carnival. Those times are when most members sign up for community service together.
