Program: Warren Smith—Sacramento Republic Football Club

Warren Smith, President of the Sacramento Republic Football Club, believes Sacramento is a prime candidate for a major league soccer club. Sacramento was in the top seven television markets for the recent World Cup, and was in the top ten markets for the previous two World Cups. The Republic, a member of the United Soccer League, draws over 12,000 fans to home games. Sacramento is now making a case to be an expansion team in the Major Soccer League (MSL). For MSL to come to Sacramento, the City needs to prove that the market is viable, a strong ownership group exists, and that a stadium of 18,000 to 25,000 will be available. The market has been proven, and the ownership group is being organized. As for the stadium, a financial plan is under development. Expansion of the league is the most likely way for Sacramento to obtain a team because it is difficult to relocate an existing team. MSL wants to expand, and two new franchises are expected to be announced by the end of the year. Sacramento currently is in the running, but may be behind Minneapolis and Miami. MSL's goal is to help the USA to win the World Cup and Sacramento could be part of the effort.
