Last Program (July 14)

Our state representative Marsha Farney was introduced by program chairman, Glynn Hatley and Bill Chapman. We learned that she was an educator before getting involved in state government. She is a strong advocate for public education.

Marsha also serves on the boards of many service oriented organizations in Georgetown.

Only 1300 of the thousands of bills proposed this last session became laws. She was satisfied that many of the proposed bills were not needed and gave some examples.

She and others have worked to end what she called diversion. In the past, funds collected for certain purposes were often used elsewhere.

We also learned that laws pertaining to missing children have been strengthened, more money is going for mental health care and border security.

She remained after the meeting to hear members express some of their own concerns.
