Salisbury was a fortified outpost established by the British South Africa Company in 1890 in the north central area of Southern Rhodesia as a trading centre as the British Empire consolidated its colonisation of Africa.

After the Unilateral Declaration of Independence by Ian Smith's government and 15 years of civil war Zimbabwe finally achieved independence under the African Nationalist rule of Robert Mugabe on 18th April, 1980 and is celebrating its Independence Day today.

Salisbury was renamed Harare and nowadays has a population of about 1.6 million. Years of political corruption and social unrest have led to hyper-inflation with foreign currencies, including the Australia Dollar adopted for local use.

Harare has been nominated as the world's least liveable city by the Economist magazine for the last few years but there are good people trying to improve life for the ordinary people there including the 587 Rotarians in the 29 Clubs in Zimbabwe.

Among them are President Johnson Dhemba and the 34 Members of the breakfast Rotary Club of Harare Dawn.

It was chartered in 2000 in District 9210 which also covers Malawi, Mozambique and Zambia.

The Club has two of RI's principal objectives as its main focus - literacy and clean water supply.

Last month they handed over a new fitted out reading room and a water bore with a pump at a primary school on the outskirts of Harare.

WDYTYA Who Do You Think You Are - History and story

Linda is an author and researcher with program 'Who do you think you are' which airs on Tuesday nights 7.30 on SBS. Professional historians come back each year to support the show. Linda feels fortunate to have been involved in the very successful SBS program. The Australian version started in 2008 and has grown from strength to strength. Linda explained there are many reasons for the success of the program - the concept of taking a celebrity and sharing their life story, as the story unfolds the celebrity story becomes relevant to many people. A journey through family history can be relevant to all of us.

Why are celebrities, not ordinary people featured in the program - obvious answer is ratings. Casting for the series can be challenging - many people say no. Geoffrey Rush was approached in series one, but was unable to find time to be interviewed until series six.

Someone who knows little about their family history makes for an interesting story.

Research of family tree is the first step when producing the show. Each episode is filmed live. Revelations are revealed live to the participant, unrehearsed.

The most interesting convict story Linda was involved in was AFL star Ron Barassi.

Ray Martins story was moving looking back to his indigenous heritage.

Linda described Andrew Denton's story as a fascinating research project. Andrew's father was Jewish who changed his name in order to be more accepted and successful in the world. Historical family records were from Russia and Poland, most of which had been destroyed during and after the war. Memory books found in Canada showed Andrew's family were transported to a death camp. This was an incredibly moving episode. Through telling one mans' story, the story of millions was able to be told.
