Monday's Program

Allen Ferrenberg

Climate Change

Dr. Ferrenberg has worked on various R&D projects in the aerospace industry and on advanced diesel engine technology. He was employed as a civilian scientist by the Air Force, taught briefly and part-time at several universities, developed and operated his own small R&D company, and was employed at Rocketdyne. His aerospace R&D work generally involved modeling of combustion processes for aircraft fire and explosion protection, fuels research, and liquid rocket engine combustor R&D. At Rocketdyne, he managed the Advanced Combustion Devices Department, which was responsible for all advanced liquid rocket engine combustor research and development. This included the design, fabrication and testing of new concepts and engines as well as more basic combustor related research and combustor modeling. In his "retirement" he taught undergraduate and graduate courses in thermal sciences (Thermodynamics, Heat Transfer, and Solar Thermal Systems) in the mechanical engineering department at the University of Nevada - Reno for seven years.

Meet Fellow Rotarian Leslie Farias

Leslie Farias is a native Nevadan, having been born and raised in Smith Valley, Nevada, where she grew up riding horses and flying with her father in his classic airplanes. Her father, Lester Farias, was a three-time Past President of the Smith Valley Rotary Club. She graduated from the University of Nevada Reno with a Masters degree in Speech Communication and just six years ago completed her second Masters in Adult Education.

Leslie has specialized in various aspects of communications, beginning with a 10-year career teaching high school English writing and literature at Reno High School. After moving to Dallas, Texas in 1988, she founded Farias Business Communication where her focus turned to facilitating workshops in team building and staff relations, presentation skills, business writing, business protocol, and adult training methodologies in the corporate arena. Organizations consistently review her trainings as positive and upbeat, resulting in lasting behavioral changes for optimal communication.

Leslie has also applied her significant knowledge of communication models to training judges throughout the U.S. and Canada in effective listening, gender differences in communication, and communication in the courtroom. Through her work with the National Judicial College here in Reno, she has also assisted in the design, development and training of judges who have become instructors of other judges in their respective states. These states continue to use her adult education methodologies. Judge John Kennedy, Dean of California's Judicial Education said, "Leslie's was the best judicial education model I have ever seen."

In addition, University of Nevada Reno business college students have previously gained valuable knowledge from her business communication classes.

Current clients include the Texas Court of Appeals; the University of Nevada Reno School of Medicine, Saint Mary's Regional Medical Center, and the justices of the Canadian Supreme Court. Justice Alan Wokowich of Canadian said, "Leslie she has the ability to simplify the complicated for optimal understanding and retention."

She has been a keynote speaker for organizations such as Toastmasters, the Professional Saleswomen of Nevada, Texas Women's Bar Association, Dallas Women in Business, The Canadian Supreme Court Annual Conference, and the Businesswomen of Atlanta, to name a few.

Leslie has raised two sons who are businessmen here in Reno: Conrad Wright, a graduate of Texas Tech University and a former Reno Air National Guard Intelligence Analyst and Veteran of Desert Storm and Desert Freedom, is the founder and owner of Alchemy Partners, providing intelligence and geospatial data collection and analysis internationally. And Brandon Wright, Co-Owner of the Depot Craft Distillery and Brewery, a graduate of the University of Nevada Reno and the International Brewing Academy in Munich, Germany, is an Internationally award-winning distiller and Master Brewer.

This time of year, you can find Leslie skiing with her 3 and 6 year-old granddaughters, Faris and Hazel Wright.

Leslie Farias gets introduced by Bruce Foster.

She's a pro at developing content strategies, planning and executing editorial calendars, and managing multiple deadlines.

Before launching Flanz Writes in 2016, Flanzraich was the Creative Development Manager of RGJ Media and led a team of editors, designers and web strategists to produce 75 publications and online efforts each year. At this time, she also oversaw RENO Magazine as its editor in chief. Flanzraich's editorial experience also includes four years of managing newspapers on Lake Tahoe's north and south shores. She's also worked with the Associated Press, Las Vegas Sun and Nevada Broadcasters Association. A University of Nevada, Reno alumna, Flanzraich graduated from the Reynold's School of Journalism in 2007 with a bachelor's degree in journalism and American history.

When she's not managing content strategies or developing engaging copy, Flanzraich enjoys hiking with her husband and mini schnauzer, Max. She is currently writing her first novel.

Annie Flanzraich gets introduced by Bruce Foster.

Club Member and Board Member Tom Hall, who lost his home to the Little Valley Fire, reviews the disaster and his family's response to wholly unexpected disasters such as that fire. Tom provided an outstanding briefing on the fire's impact on his family and what to do to ameliorate the fire's impact and how to recover from such a disaster. Tom's briefing is available and provides an excellent step by step tutorial on mitigation of the impact of this type of disaster.

When introducing a guest or new members during a Club meeting, the correct way is to greet the Club President, fellow Rotarians and guests, introduce yourself and state your classification, and then introduce your guest, their title and business affiliation. Please do not introduce any guest as a prospective new member or that they are looking for a position or clients.

Attendance

Please make sure you turn in make-ups to Carl Fuetsch at a club meeting or by email: info@renorotaryclub.org.
