WHO SAID YOU CAN'T WRITE A BOOK IN A DAY !

Chris Oakley's idea to get children and adults to write a book in a day was an interesting concept. Originally an idea to raise funds to renovate a heritage listed building into a writer's centre, the Katherine Prichard Writers' Centre now hosts regular Book In A Day competitions for primary, secondary and adult groups. Since 2003, the funds, raised from entry fees, now go to local hospitals and medical research into children's health Australia wide.

OTHER GUESTS

As well as having Chris Oakley as a guest speaker we also welcomed Les Burbemeister, a fellow Rotarian , all the way from South Australia. Les came to WA for some work commitments that turned in to a holiday and touring of our South West. Welcome Les! And of course our orphaned Rotarian ,Rolf Stene from Bunbury /Leschenault popped in for tea.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Andy Perrella, Vacations, reported the first visit would be to the SouthWest Health Campus on 22 Aug at 6 pm. Members will be taken through various departments to view the state of the art technology and equipment, some of which we have raised funds for in the past. Dinner arrangements will follow at the Parks Tavern at 7.15 pm.

Gordon Golby announced that the Children's Playground at Bunbury Regional Hospital was finally completed and thanks were extended to members. The Rotary Park sign on the road to Busselton, has also be taken down. If anyone wants some wood , you are welcome to collect it from the site.

Glenys McDonald, confirmed the Black Tie Ball was nearly full with only a few seats available, contact Terry Coote if you want one. The committee needs help with covering 180 chairs on Sat afternoon at 1.00 – if any wives or members would like to give a hand. A seating plan will be set up on the night, so attendees need to check this on arrival as ticket numbers are not the same as table numbers.

WEEKLY COMPETITION

93 tickets were sold this week by selling agent Lee D. On this day Len informed us that somebody called Ronald flogged 52 million and Marilyn Munro's funeral took place. Dean won the wine but this won't help him grow. Mike Presser won a third place – goodness knows what happened to second place?

FINES

Jamie Challis carried the box this week for antics at Friday night drinks- apparently whatever happens on Friday nights stays at Friday night! Murray Connop stopped Len Andel from leaving the bar- that Len's story. Ray Philp turned the big 60. Dawn Naylor was fined for asking Dean Freeman to put up the flag- Dean still could not reach even when standing on the chair. David Keyser has been holding drinking comps with his son whilst the wife is away- last week he was trying to scrounge up dinners- well you know what they say about what is behind every good man. Jim Stephen lost his glasses, forgot to pick them up- was reminded , picked them but did not pay! Bruce Lynch paid for the BT tickets in the wrong account- of course he blamed his wife! Rolf Stene was fined for thinking he was a member but not joining.

MORE ABOUT BOOK IN A DAY

How does it work you may well ask. Firstly sponsored teams are sent the parameters to be opened at 8.00 am. Parameters include 2 characters, 1 non human character, a setting, an issue and 5 random words, that all have to be included in the story. Writing takes place all morning with subgroups writing up individual chapters. In the afternoon the group edits and illustrates their books. The book must be completed and sent to WABIAD by 8.00pm. Then they have a party!

The books are judged by WABIAD committee and the winners are announced.

The entry fees go to the local children's hospitals for things such as baby monitors ,research, pain rooms and indoor playgrounds. In 2011 over $16 000 and 58 books were donated to PMH. A thriving completion has seen WABIAD grow from 18 teams in 2003 to 224 teams in 2011. Zaki thanked Chris for his fantastic work.
