Tuesday's Wollundry MeetingPresident's Announcements

Posted by John Egan on Jul 09, 2013

President Phil welcomed our guests, Victoria and Max Burmeister, and Bob Willis who is the guest of David Pyke. He went on to publicly thank Hugh Campbell, who stepped in at very short notice for to take Laurie Blowse's market slot. (Not surprising). Next week is Budget Session, and there is a Board meeting this week.

We were given "free time", which was well used.

Guest Speaker

Posted by John Egan on Jul 09, 2013

Guest Speaker today was Mark Hillis who spoke on the state of play in the Auto Industry. His very entertaining talk took us down memory lane, where a standard vehicle had no heater, no radio, and ran drum brakes, crossply tires, and definitely no seat belts. This vehicle represented 54 weeks wages at that time.

Today, five star safety is sought, with self tensioning seat belts for all passengers, 4 wheel disc brakes, alloy wheels, radial ply tires, high energy headlights, eight airbags and intermittent wipers among other things as standard. And this car costs 10 weeks wages or just a wee little bit more!

There are more than 54 marques available in Australia. This is the widest range anywhere in the world. Back then you drove a Ford or a Holden. The market has changed dramatically in the past few years.

Mark pointed out that commercial and SUV make up half of the Australian market and local manufacture makes up just 10%. Mark was quite frank in saying that his business had shrunk from 35% to below 10%, which is the reason he has taken on several franchises.

He quite rightly pointed out that commuters, squinters, were overly represented in the infrastructure spending of governments as these one passenger vehicles choke up freeways and roads; traffic that could better be serviced by rail.

This very interesting and informative talk ranged over the topics of product positioning, market requirements, and workplace relations. John Gray gave Mark a huge wrap in his vote of thanks, and a measure of the reception by the group was not one person moved even though we went well overtime.

Sergeant's Session

Posted by John Egan on Jul 09, 2013

Another new sergeant , and this is one who actually volunteered for the job. Tim Barter outlined his modus operandi, and proceeded to extract money from just about everyone.

A couple of false starts with inaccurate clocks and shadows, but it augers well. Mark Hillis for one is going to be very, very quiet.

Rotary Insights

Australian Rotary Health

Rotary has many many programmes, a great number of which are International.

This is one that is Australian, home grown, and the benefits stay in Australia.

Australian Rotary Health provides funds that that are spent in Australia on Research and Medical Scholarships to improve the health firstly of Australians and thence to the wider world.

Our Indigenous Scholarships are aimed at helping medical students to obtain the qualifications they need. It is an unfortunate fact that our indigenous people have worse health outcomes than the rest of the Australian community. Indigenous Health Scholarships go a long way to addressing this unacceptable situation.

While there is an emphasis on Mental Health, the research scope is much wider. For example, one supported PhD Scholarship is looking at a vaccine for melanoma. This is particularly exciting as the vaccine actually works, but only for a limited time. Our PhD student is trying to find out why.

The research is exciting, and the results could well be life changing.

Australian Rotary Health is at the forefront of Health Research and is the largest non-government supplier of research funds into mental health in Australia.
