"All the News that Fits We Print"

At the Bell

President Aleia called the meeting to order. Linda Collins led the flag salute, Keller McDonald led us in song, and Bill Cole provided a Thought for the Day: "When I was a boy my Mama would send me to the corner store with $1 and I would come home with a bag of potatoes, 2 loaves of bread, a bottle of milk, a hunk of cheese and a box of tea. You can't do that now... Too many cameras."

Visiting Rotarians and Guests

On this beautiful day for Teacher Recognitions there were no visiting Rotarians. There were however many guests! (My apologies if I left anyone out). Brendon Houston welcomed his beautiful Mother, visiting from England, Topsy Houston. Mel Davis' guest was Ralph Schram. Ken McHugh introduced Jack Dunlap. Harry Simms brought the love of his life, Susanna. Sally Ewald and her David were also in the house!

Steve Jorgensen introduced Doria Trombetta and Brenda Hoff, principals of El Molino and Laguna High Schools. Introductions were made for Teachers of the Year, Gianna De Persiis Vona and Rachel Lasek and Rachel's proud father Jake Goldberg, a science teacher at Analy.

PROGRAM – "COLLAPSE"

Mike Ferguson introduced Michael C. Ruppert, a local activist with global impact on the subject: "What is going to matter is taking care of each other and working together". Ruppert, an honors UCLA graduate and a decorated LAPD officer, became an investigative reporter. In 1978 he investigated a CIA scandal involving complicity in drug dealing. His 2004 book, Crossing the Rubicon: The decline of the American Empire at the End of the Age of Oil is in the Harvard Business School Library. His work as an investigative reporter included his newsletter's expose of the friendly fire killing of Army Ranger and pro-football star, Pat Tillman. A book in 2009, Confronting Collapse: The Crisis of Energy and Money in a Post Peak Oil World was made into a movie "Collapse" that predicted many things - many that have already come true. Ruppert started CollapseNet (www.collapse.net) website. Until recently, he was president of Collapse Network, Inc. and still hosts The Lifeboat Hour on Progressive Radio Network. He lives in Sebastopol where he practices organic permaculture and sustainable living.

Ruppert started out his talk with a surprising statement that "You all live 5 to 10 to 15 miles from where I live and you are the most important relations that I have". That beginning began his real theme of priorities for dealing with the collapse of state and federal infrastructure, based upon knowledge, preparation, living in the right place, and who you know.

He continued with an observation on what is happening. "Corruption in the U.S. is running full tilt – everybody is busy 'getting theirs'. The problem is related to the fact that the infinite growth paradigm is not possible and the 42 to 43 Trillion dollar debt cannot ever be paid back."

Ruppert calls himself a whistle blower and related that his father was a career Air Force officer, and CIA liaison for the Titan 3C spy plane. His mother was a codebreaker. One of his proudest pieces of investigative reporting was the 2006 Pat Tillman 2006 cover-up that resulted in the discipline of 3 generals plus many other officers and the resignation of Don Rumsfeld. Concerning his whistle blowing activities he stated that "I have no other loyalty above truth."

Returning to energy and oil discussion, he stated that his 2009 Book, Crossing the Rubicon discussed Peak Oil and Peak Energy and that "you cannot grow the economy without oil. There are no substitutes for oil. We are dependent upon automobiles – and all alternatives have been systematically stymied. Oil is a 1-time resource; no alternate energy sources are available." He went on to explain what he means by "Past Peak Oil" with the explanation that originally there was a 100:1 return on oil (meaning that you can spend one barrel of oil energy and get 100 barrels to sell) but now that return is only 8 to 10:1 and getting less.

So he says that we "Live in challenging times. We need to organize Lifeboats so we can disengage from the Titanic of economy. Our energy-permitted bonds with the rest of the world are going away – The day of strawberries from Chile are soon over."

Recently Ruppert has been concentrating on what he calls "mapmaking work" and analysis continues at CollapseNet (www.collapse.net). He recently gave his company to employees and is starting a 3rd book.

Returning to the solution or survival during collapse, his main point is that our region, Sonoma County, and particularly West County, is a magic location where survival – even if state federal governments collapse – is possible if we work together. "We have enough land to feed people. We have many local permaculture experts, such as Occidental Arts and Ecology, that with the Sustainability Movement that make a critical difference. A new TransitionUS (www.transitionus.com) headquarters is located in Petaluma." Our relative distance from high density cities offers protection. "Zombies in cities, without connection to land, will kill themselves before they get here." "It's possible to feed a lot of people here – and outside people are less of a threat because they wouldn't even recognize an edible in the ground."

The real key is how we get along together. Organizations like Rotary and Grange will be called upon for serious things like saving lives. "People need to develop their skill sets – Think about where you live and how to take care of yourself."

Michael ended his prepared talk with some warnings of imminent threats: "Fukushima is the biggest threat right now <and if the tower falls>, 85 times more radiation <will be released> than all released before. We don't have a solution because no machine is known that can even approach that kind of radiation. Closer to home, "With San Onofre Nuclear plant down, there are going to be major blackouts in LA area this summer".

Several members asked questions indicating that they had already considered some of these issues and related it to their own experience. Les Crawford stated that lower school revenues from the State of California are worsening ("already at the bottom") and asked whether Ruppert could correlate the decline in education with collapse. Ruppert's answer was that "Education is not producing useful human beings. Education won't come back – <It> will continue to decline. Yvette Williams van Aggelen asked about the Bioneers October Convention in San Rafael: "Aren't they thinking of the same issues?" Yes, responded Ruppert, "There is more knowledge and skills here in West Sonoma County per square mile than anywhere else". Harvey Henningsen asked "Are you a survivalist? Do you advocate arming ourselves?" and Michael responded "Not really – unless people are trained to use them. I have wilderness training, and I'm trained in firearms. You do need to learn how to avoid an ambush but I don't advocate getting a gun without training - Without training, <you> should not have a gun."

The Raffle

Mel Davis was the lucky winner of his very own Rotary hat! Congratulations Mel.

The Closing Bell

President Aleia then adjourned the meeting!

After The Bell

Paul Weaver Memorial Service: Gene Nelson reports that, right now, the memorial service for Paul Weaver will be at the Community Church, but not until Saturday, July 14. Gene will let us know if there are any changes.

[Editorial Comments]: -Ed. saw that a lot of our audience had issues with our speaker's presentation, especially the imminent urgency and timescale, but we need to relate more to the potential solutions (or at least improvements) he is suggesting rather than just react (and go numb or get mad) with his examples of chaos. This was heavy stuff... quite a contrast to honoring our teachers. It does seem that Michael Ruppert is quick to dispense with alternates to oil – specifically natural gas.

Here you are – You've made it. You are with all those great people in Rotary. You are doing good things. You have gathered enough "chips" to last until you are 110... but you're concerned about that bump on your forehead. So here comes this (61 year old) hard-talking guy who stands on street corners (Did you do that 40-50 years ago?) and tells you that your lights are going out, that your car won't have gas, and that you won't have strawberries from Chile anymore! Your neighbor's house was auctioned off, your IRA suffered badly, and all those election people are telling you how wrong the leadership has been recently (ignoring preceding of course). It's enough to make you lose confidence and fear for your own and your family's security. After a while you even have come to the conclusion that maybe you are being manipulated? Are we really going to be growing our own food soon? 20 years from now?

Americans are supposed to be flexible and resourceful – but a lot of them need to be pushed into action – just like an alcoholic needs to hit "rock bottom" before recovering. (Is that necessary here? Maybe you don't feel like facing "rock bottom" quite yet?) So our speaker is stressing that our location and people are key – that we are in an optimum place. (Have you noticed that we do have great strawberries nearby? Are you growing any?) It certainly makes sense to -Ed. that it's better here in West Sonoma County than in, say, Oakland if any of a number of bad things is to happen: Collapse, Earthquake, or other. As far as interruption of infrastructure, an earthquake might, short-medium term, mimic the conditions of a longer collapse. Short term, an earthquake might actually be a more likely event. -Ed. had the opportunity as an engineer to study, up close & real technical, a major earthquake (3,000 deaths, cities leveled) and concentrate on the way people, with or without good government leadership, organize themselves for care, shelter, and food. -Ed.'s had the learning opportunity of returning to the same exact places at 1, 2, 3, and 10 years afterwards to see and record what was recovered, who rebuilt and who did not, and what was not recovered. In some places, people are strong and respond well. -Ed. spends a lot of time as a board member (and sometimes teacher) of Sebastopol Fire Department's CERT group that has trained over 300 local people in basic first aid, fire safety, light search and rescue, team organization, law enforcement, communications, and medical operations. Besides that useful training, a new CERT Neighborhood Program is organizing more than a dozen neighborhood groups (12 to 20 houses each) to be able to respond to an earthquake – That's another several hundred people involved. Neighborhood people are learning (for the first time in many cases) who their neighbors are and what resources – and needs – they have. One of the most important lessons of CERT training is to know what you and your team members can do and what you are not trained to do – and how to organize. A lot of the advantages that our speaker is talking about for West Sonoma County folks are people advantages. Worry can be immobilizing, serves no purpose – but a little educational and preparation effort will help all to endure whatever happens.

Some of this volunteer work might strike you as just that, work. (-Ed.'s not special in West County – He's just trying to keep himself occupied.) He finds it interesting, satisfying to help out at a local level, even fun. One of his hobbies, Ham Radio (-Ed. has the call sign AF6TB, an Amateur Extra License), is involved – with a purpose. -Ed.'s point, and our speaker's more positive statements indicate -- given you are lucky enough to be here -- that there are things you can do to increase your awareness of what and who is around – to your advantage in many different types of disaster. You can prepare tools and supplies (really simple to integrate with everyday things), and learn some new skills (like taking an interesting class to learn how to identify good things to eat when you're away from Safeway), maybe learn how to raise a fun vegetable garden – that really works, and this preparation, whether things go wrong or not, is better than sitting around worrying about it. (It's really a good idea to have a 30 day supply of food and medicines (Get a discount too!) around – for a lot of different scenarios.) -Ed.]

#15: The Sponsor of a New Member

The bylaws of Rotary clearly outline the procedure for proposing someone for rotary club membership. The "proposer" or sponsor is the key person in the growth and advancement of Rotary. Without a sponsor, an individual will never have the opportunity to become a Rotarian. Individuals must be asked to join Rotary; thus, it is every member's responsibility to identify and invite prospective members.

The task of the sponsor should not end merely by submitting a name to the club secretary or membership committee. Rotary has not established formal responsibilities for sponsors; however, these procedures are recommended in many clubs.

The sponsor should:

1. Invite a prospective member to several meetings prior to proposing the individual for membership
2. Accompany the prospective new member to one or more orientation/informational meetings
3. Introduce the new member to other club members each week for the first month.
4. Encourage the new member to become involved in any club service projects underway
5. Invite the new member to attend meetings of the Interact or Rotaract clubs sponsored by the club
6. Provide opportunities for the new member to get involved in international program efforts, such as Group Study Exchange or Youth Exchange
7. Invite the new member to accompany the sponsor to neighboring clubs for the first make-up meeting to learn the process and observe the spirit of friendship
8. Ask the new member and spouse to accompany the sponsor to the club's social activities, dinners, or other special occasions
9. Urge the new member and spouse to attend the district conference with the sponsor
10. Serve as a special friend to assure that the new member becomes an active Rotarian

When a new member becomes involved and connected, both Rotary and the new member become stronger.
