57 Collett St from 11am - 2pm (Bookings Essential)

Joker Was won by someone present but can't remember who!! The Joker didn't get chosen.

At this Meeting we were very lucky to have two talks. The first one by Zac the student that we are sponsoring to attend the NYSF.

Zac spoke about the expectations he had of attending the Forum. He wanted to investigate the application of science in the workplace. He is passionate about IT and has already with his father's help produced a games app. He is also wanting to meet other students doing the course. After a question about applications he took us through the application and waiting process.

Zac will be back after NYSF to tell of his experience there.

MARKET REPORT

Summer has arrived and as is usual at this time of the year, the sale of water bottles was brisk. Happily we (John T. Annette and Veena) managed to sell two copies of the cookbook - word must be getting around.

So all up we made $278.50 made up of:

42 green bags, 5 red bags, 27 water bottles, 2 cookbooks, 16 tables.

$4.50 to Annette for ice.

The team next week will need

Slabs of Water and ICE.

Plastic money bags and long cable ties.

The new table base (legs) work beautifully. Thank you Anton??? For ordering this item. Also please note Xmas Market will be on 23rd but will stick to the normal start time. This is because arrangements for the Summernats will be underway and entry will be restricted to Wells Station Road.

Market Report by Veena

Sergeant

Veena asked us quite a few very obscure questions and extracted lots of change when we couldn't answer them!!

ME TALK

Paul Robey told us about a fantastic jaunt he had while he was an Air Force Cadet. This trip was initially organised by his father so that he could join the rest of his family in the USA. However the jaunt turned out to be much more than a ride in an aeroplane from Australia to Sacramento USA and he had many adventures. The adventures started on the aircraft being diverted to the Philippines and from there it just got better! It sounded a fabulous adventure for a young cadet and didn't cost him anything.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

Paul Roger spoke about the ROMAC Ball to be held next year. Poster in this Newsletter.

Anton announced that he had been to the District President, Assistant Directors and Club President's Meeting held the previous Saturday. Then handed over to Paul Roger (in his role of AG to tell us what went on.)

Paul reported about

The 90th Anniversary of the Rotary Foundation next year and the re districting of Rotary districts as they are at present throughout Australia.

There was lots of discussion and questions about these topics and we were lucky that we had both Anton and Paul who had been present at the Meeting to answer questions and offer explanations.

JOKE

It is during World War 11 and a German spy has been dropped off on a beach in Wales. He spends the night on the Beach and when it is daylight he walks up to the closest village. His duty was to find someone called Jones and say "there was frost on the pumpkins" The first shop he found open was the bakery and the sign on the shop was JONES the BAKER. He went in and asked to see Jones. An older man came out and he leaned over and said softly "there was frost on the pumpkins". The owner said "What are you talking about? The spy realised that he had the wrong man. He left the shop and walked down the High Street coming upon another shop with a sign "Jones the BUTCHER". Once again he was met with no understanding. Although worried, the spy decided to try again. This time he saw a sign that said Jones the GREENGROCER. He went in saw the greengrocer and intoned the password phrase. This time a look of recognition passed over the face of the Greengrocer and he said "It is not me you want it is Jones the spy he lives in the house on the cliff just over there.
