Annual Captain's Luncheon

The Rotary Clubs of Winchester and Woburn for decades have celebrated the friendly rivalry with a "Captain's Luncheon" alternating the site each year. The luncheon is an opportunity to show appreciation to both teams for their efforts on behalf of the teams, the schools and the respective communities. With captains, coaches, athletic directors, principals and superintendents in attendance there is friendly banter with a definite display of sportsmanship.. The captains know those who will be standing across the line at the opening whistle have come to play too and they are passionate, intense and full of pride, just like them.

"Sportsmanship is more than a word to be bandied about by college yell leaders and newspapermen. It is a philosophy of living. Sportsmanship is simply a corollary of the Golden Rule. You give and take on a fifty-fifty basis. You play the game. And when it is over, there are no whines and no excuses. You both have done your best. We need sportsmanship everywhere and every day. We need it because there are ill-tempered men and women in homes and offices. We need it because there are road hogs on the highway and political meddlers in public positions. The world needs sportsmanship. The rules of fair play and clean play must be read into international politics and economic relations, if universal peace is to come and to stay."

Knute Rockne, Notre Dame Football coach, November 1930

Trying to capture the essence of a rivalry that has been in existence for 122 years is difficult, particularly with the time constraints. There was a lot of microfilm to go through.

The rivalry started in 1891. The first 37 years the games were not on Thanksgiving and they were not played every year. In fact in 1892 Winchester did not field a team.

The series stands at:

Winchester won 52

Woburn won 44

12 Ties (6 of these were 0-0 scores)

This year will mark the 109th game in the series.

There were no games in 1892, 1895-1898, 1900, 1901, 1903-1907 and then again from 1912-1917.

This year the Thanksgiving Day game is the second contest between the two schools. However this is not the first time that the teams have played twice in a season.

It happened in 1902, 1909, 1910, & 1911

In 1894 Winchester won but there is no record of the score.

In 1899 the score was Woburn 5 – Winchester 0. At that time a touchdown was 5 points. The 6 point touchdown did not come in until 1912.

Speaking of 1912 it was very difficult to find many articles about the games since the Winchester Star did not have a "sports" writer. So I was excited while doing research to find a front page headline "Team on Fire". Unfortunately the team on fire was a team of horses pulling a burning wagon through the streets of Winchester.

In 1918 the season didn't start until Saturday, October 26th due to the great flu epidemic. The teams had to practice for two weeks before the season according to rule and the practices couldn't start until the flu epidemic ban was lifted.

Over the years both teams have had players with some colorful nicknames which made for great press. There was Big Monk, Chucker, Butter, Scooter, Fatty, Cupie, Chief, Hennie, Dogger, Rugged, Dynamite, Steamer, Piggy, Olio, Spike, Fat, Doc, Iron, Skitchie, Jocko, Moose, Muscles, Casty, Chatanooga Choo Choo and Nutsy. (Frank "Nutsy" Amico was a Rotarian and Fire Chief in Winchester)

One of Winchester's 50 year members Nick Fitzgerald was quarterback of the 1925 team. In the early years Thanksgiving Day in Winchester was marked with a football game between an Alumni team vs. the High School team. It wasn't until 1928 that the Woburn – Winchester Thanksgiving Day game became an institution.

Thanksgiving and Football are now inseparable. Woburn won that first Thanksgiving game 26-6 and clinched the State title. The next year the game was already referred to by the Star and Times as the annual "Thanksgiving Classic".

The game has been played in sub-freezing temps and balmy conditions, on muddy, sloppy fields and on dry, fast fields. On a few occasions the game was postponed due to snow or torrential downpours but whenever it was played it is always played with intensity tempered with good sportsmanship. The season record means little in this game. If you go undefeated into this game and lose, the rest of the season is overlooked.

This is the game both teams want to win. Quote from the Star: "Winning this game is tantamount to having a successful season. This is the yardstick by which rabid home town rooters measure a season." The pre-game hype lasts for over a week with dinners, luncheons, breakfasts and rallies stirring up the fandom to a fever pitch.

Former Winchester Coach John Donohue said about these shared events "We lie about how wonderful the other team is and then we try to go out and beat the team the best we can." The crowds are always large but none larger than the 1968 game when Woburn sold out of tickets early in the first quarter. One trio of Woburn fans were seen sitting on a horse, the same horse, up on the hill with an orange and black blanket draped over the animal.

No matter what the season record happened to be "The" game since 1928 has drawn crowds averaging 5,000 to 10,000. The 1979 crowd was said to have exceeded 20,000.

The rivalry has stirred the emotions of the each team's sympathizers to the point of "rowdyism". In 1930 some overzealous Winchester fans, so the story goes, visited Woburn and painted the goal posts red and black. In 1931 Woburn supporters reciprocated with a display of orange and black paint on the goal posts in Winchester. At least through the early 60's pranks and retribution was a pre-game mainstay. There were lots of eggs and shaving cream adorning landmarks in each town. The World War I Memorial in Winchester, a Herbert Adams sculpture of 2 elegantly dressed females that sits on the corner of Main Street and Mystic Valley Parkway, has worn Orange and Black on more than one occasion. There were times when the antics reached the level of delinquent behavior and cooler heads had to prevail.

On Thanksgiving Day 1940 Coach Henry "Hennie" Knowlton of Winchester and Coach James L. "Dogger" Brennan of Woburn resumed a rivalry that for them went back to 1925 when they faced off in a regular a season game between the 2 schools and continued until Hennie graduated in 1928. The two programs have produced some legendary coaches who have stressed mutual respect and class towards the other program.

The 1943 game was played on the Shore Road Field in Winchester. The field was located along the Aberjona where the Griffin museum sits now. The Aberjona had a slightly different route and the trains ran at ground level. That was the only time the game was played there. It was a lousy field.

McCormack's Apothecary, which stood on the corner of Main and Church Street, site of the current Winchester Pharmacy, for many years, provided milk shakes for the winning team, Winchester or Woburn, at his soda fountain and Fred McCormack, legendary Rotarian, also supplied the MVP trophy for the Winchester High player of the game. McCormack's sponsored the "Victory" dance for 30 years on Thanksgiving night. It was first held in Waterfield Hall, then the Town Hall and later the high school. The event was attended by upwards of 500 -800 students from both schools. At the dance the MVP trophies for both teams were presented.

The winning team always had a car caravan that snaked its way through the streets of the opposing town with horns blaring and exuberant fans proclaiming their victory. Arguably the greatest years of the rivalry were 1953 – 1955. These were the playing years for Woburn's Joe Castiglione, not the Red Sox Broadcaster, and Winchester's Joe Bellino, two of the greatest athletes of their time. Castiglione scored 5 rushing touchdowns in his three Thanksgiving games and Joe Bellino scored 3 times in his senior year finally. Castiglione was drafted by the Red Sox and Joe Bellino won the Heissman trophy while at Annapolis. Each had their numbers retired by the respective school and Winchester has a Park dedicated to Joe Bellino. They are legends that epitomize the rivalry. Joe Castiglione once said of Joe Bellino when he took off on a flea flicker "you couldn't catch him with a gun". Joe Bellino scored in 22 successive games. The 2 Joes played offense, defense and special teams. In the 1953 contest Castiglione was off to the races with a kick-off return but was caught by Joe Bellino and tackled to save a touchdown.

In 1955 there was a shortened season again due to the Polio epidemic. The schools didn't open until September 19th and the Winchester team played its first game on October 8th.

In 1959 the Star reporter said that WHSR the High School radio station was carrying the game live but wondered who was home to listen. (The Winchester Rotary provided the funding for WHSR)

The game is so much a part of the fabric of the community that on Thanksgiving morning 1962 with torrential rains falling 248 calls came into the Winchester Police Station between 8:30 and 9:40 AM wanting to know if the game had been cancelled. It was. In 1967 the Winchester Police reported having received 1000 calls of a similar nature. The sheer volume greatly impeded their efforts to handle emergency calls. (Parkview 9 or 729-1212)

In 1963 the nation was dealing with the assassination of John F. Kennedy. The crowd of approximately 11,000 on Thanksgiving Day, November 28th, just 6 days after the assassination, stood for a moment of silence. The Woburn Times editor noted that when the announcer called for the tribute "the flag on the northerly end of the field went limp" and moments later when the drums rolled to begin the National Anthem "the wind picked up and sent Old Glory flying in the breeze.

The high regard that the fans have for the game is evident in this quote from a Winchester fan, searching for some solace after the 1982 game won by Woburn; "the only flaw in Woburn's lineup was that they painted their shoes orange".

In the Super Bowl era Woburn won 3 and Winchester 2. For the Captains, the big knock is that the Thanksgiving Game doesn't mean anything anymore but this game means everything to those seniors playing in their last game. It means a lot to the Cheer Leaders and Band members who have spent countless hours practicing for the "Big" day. It means a lot to those fans who cherish the memories of Thanksgiving games past and who look to add to that vault of memories. It is a day of reunions and bragging rights, but most of all it is a display of mutual respect and class by two great football programs.

The earliest photograph of any Winchester High School football team in the Winchester Archival Center dates to December 1899. Coach Ernest Collins (far right, third row from bottom) wrote an essay on football that year, perhaps needed after the disaster of the Winchester-Woburn game played a year earlier on the Saturday following Thanksgiving.

Outraged fans ruined football game in 1898

WINCHESTER – Since 1891, the football field has been the scene of a rivalry between Winchester and Woburn. Though in the early years they did not always play at Thanksgiving, on the Saturday after Thanksgiving in 1898 they played perhaps one of the rowdiest games in their history.

The match was not on Thanksgiving Day itself; however, as reported in the Boston Globe, a game was played in Woburn that Saturday.

With headlines about rough play, spectators rushing onto the field, players unable to control a mob, and great commotion in the street after the game, the paper reported that “The game today between the Woburn high school association team and the Winchester athletic club resulted in a free fight.

“Trouble commenced in the second half, when Place, one of the Winchester guards, struck Dodge across the eyes with his nose guard, laying him out. This stopped the game for a few moments, and the crowd of spectators rushed into the field and immediately took sides, the friends of both being about evenly divided. There were peace-makers in each team and they soon got the upper hands of the hot-headed combatants, and the game was resumed.

“Shortly afterwards Dodge, after being downed, was kicked in the head.

“This caused another uproar, and again it looked as though there would be a clash between the Woburn and Winchester spectators, but it was averted by the players, who lined up again. Near the end of the game the man playing opposite

Fowle, before the ball was put at play, rushed forward and struck Fowle with his fist in the chest. The reason for this was evidently because Fowle had tackled him hard a few plays before. All the spectators seeing this, and anticipating a fight, again rushed on the field.

“This time the players could not control the crowd, and the partisans of each side came together. Some blows were struck. The Woburn contingent tried to get hold of the two players who had slugged Dodge and Fowle, but the Winchester crowd kept them from danger.

“There were numerous side-show fights on a small scale. Finally the players again lined up, but it was impossible to continue the game with any success on account of the temper of the spectators. Winchester won, 6 to 0, the score being made in the first half.

“The Winchester players first left the field amid hoots and hisses. They were accompanied by their friends. When the party reached Bow (Street) it divided, a portion taking to Montvale (Avenue). The others following Salem (Street). The latter got entangled with a crowd of Woburn people and there was a general show of hard feeling.

“The other portion asked the Woburn people who accompanied them for expenses. This being refused there was more trouble and one of the visitors carried away a black eye. When the party reached Main (Street), it caused such a commotion and blockade of the sidewalks that the police interfered and drove them away.”

Woburn and Winchester played again during the fall of 1899 (prior to November). Able to play to the end, Woburn won 5-0.

Coach commends the sport

Appointed in 1899, Coach Ernest Collins wrote “Some Facts about Football,” for The High School Recorder of December 1899. Some excerpts show how he viewed the game as more than rough play.

“True football in no way resembles a bull-fight or a prize-ring, as some comic papers would have us believe. Brute force is not the most important factor and, as has been proved, intellectuality is an absolute essential.”

“Football seeks to develop every faculty of body and mind. ... Parents are waking up to the idea that it is developing the boy and not making a tough of him.”

“That football is a rough game is not denied, but it is this fact that commends it to our attention. A boy is not going to have an easy time throughout his life and if he learns early how to receive hard knocks without complaint he has learned better how to receive the harder knocks which will come in the struggle with humanity as a whole. Good training in football will teach the boy how to endure any hardship which the world may present.”

“But, someone says, football is a dangerous game.... In schools where competent coaches and trainers are maintained a serious accident is seldom known. ... Many a man owes his magnificent physique and manly power to football.”

“There is another feature of the game that is seldom noticed. That is its tendency to good morals.... Every boy who hopes to be successful in football must break off every habit which would hinder his physical growth and development. Moreover, he is aided in this by his companions who are striving for the same end with himself.”

“In many schools a boy is allowed to represent the school on the football field only so long as his scholarship allows him to be a good representative of the work of the college or school. ... Not for a minute is the boy allowed to forget the aim of the institution with which he is connected. Football is a means to an end and not the end.”

Winchester pulled out last-minute score

By Walter Shaughnessy,
1917 WHS Team Captain

The squad was small in number and size, but the Winchester High School Football team of 1917 was fast, and they had a lot of spirit.

Back then the home games were played on Manchester Field, which was not yet enclosed and therefore no supporting income was realized.

Transportation was a problem too. There were few automobile owners and no buses as we know them today. Travel was by trolley car for a five cent fare, with the advantage of a transfer slip.

The coach was a physical education teacher assisted by a manager without the aid of assistant coaches or trainer.

The squad was so limited, the members of the first team played the entire game offensively and defensively, with subs getting in occasionally when there was an injury or a player needed a short rest.

In 1917, Winchester did not play Woburn in the Thanksgiving Day game, because Woburn was not in the Mystic Valley League. At that time Winchester's main opponent was Arlington. However, during this time we had several practices with Woburn.

The picture (of the 1917 squad) was taken after the final game at Spy Pond Field in Arlington. For almost the entire game the teams battled back and forth, with neither team being able to score.

Finally, at the closing moments of the game, Winchester decided to try a field goal, which was successful, thus leaving Coach Doc McCarthy and his Arlington squad bewildered. The final score was Winchester 3, Arlington 0.

THE 59TH WINCHESTER-WOBURN FOOTBALL CLASSIC is planned for today at Woburn with no chance for the Star to report results. The teams first met in 1891 and have met since then with some years in the nineties and others scattered through this century excepted. Last year Winchester won 20-6 and some thousands of rooters from what used to be South Woburn will be up in the new Woburn playing area hoping for a repeat. Their hopes rest with the starters above and others: left to right, front row, Lynch, Kelley, Tuttle, Stafford, Co-Capt. Gilberti, Crotty, Collins, John Kimball. Back row, DeTeso, Garvey, Mahoney, Jack Kimball, Blaisdell, Duffy, Rowe and Litchfield. Out with injury is Co-Capt. Stavros.

Tribute to Joe Bellino and Joe Castiglione

In Winchester and beyond Joe Bellino is a sports legend. More than just a generational phenomenon he was an athlete for the ages. While most remembered for his gridiron exploits he excelled in numerous sports. On March 27, 2019 Joe Bellino's number was called one last time.

CLASS WILL - Aberjona

WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL

Class of 1956

I, Joe Bellino, leave a box labeled "Athletic Ability"

In Coach Knowlton's office

To be used by future teams in need of it.

Arguably the greatest years of this rivalry were 1953 – 1955. These were the playing years for Woburn's Joe Castiglione, not the Red Sox Broadcaster, and Winchester's Joe Bellino, two of the greatest athletes of their time. Castiglione scored 5 rushing touchdowns in his three Thanksgiving games and Joe Bellino scored 3 times in his senior year final. Castiglione was drafted by the Red Sox and Joe Bellino won the Heisman trophy while at Annapolis. Each had their numbers retired by the respective school and Winchester has a Park dedicated to Joe Bellino. They are legends that epitomize the rivalry. Joe Castiglione once said of Joe Bellino when he took off on a flea flicker "you couldn't catch him with a gun". Joe Bellino scored in 22 successive games. He shot his 5'9", 181-pound body through holes and around tacklers on calves so thick--18 inches in circumference--his uniform pants had to be slit down the backs of the legs for him to get them on.

The 2 Joes played offense, defense and special teams. In the 1953 contest Castiglione was off to the races with a kick-off return but was caught by Joe and tackled to save a touchdown.

In 1955 Bellino completed the "Grand Slam" of schoolboy sports when he was selected to every "all" team by all of the Boston Newspapers: The Globe, The Post, The Traveler, and the Record-Advertiser-American.

Bellino was good enough in baseball to be offered a contract out of high school by the Pittsburgh Pirates, but he chose to play football for Navy despite offers from Notre Dame and several Big Ten schools.

His athletic feats helped to create his enduring place in Naval Academy and college sports history. Bellino began to make his varsity mark as a playmaking sophomore in 1958, when he scored five touchdowns while producing 506 yards from scrimmage and averaged 51 yards on four kickoff returns. He was known as "The Winchester Rifle and the "Naval Destroyer."

Displaying versatility long since lost in the sport, he played offense and defense, winning games with his running, passing, pass catching, kick returning, interceptions and tackling. Almost single-handedly, he propelled Navy to a No. 4 ranking during his senior year in 1960, electrifying crowds like few other players of his time.

The accolades he received in 1960 included: the Heisman Trophy; the Maxell trophy and Player of the Year.

On February 9, 1961 Bellino achieved All American Honors and was named College Back of the Year.

New York Times sports columnist Arthur Daley wrote “Of recent years the Navy has developed at least two tremendous offensive weapons, “One is the Polaris missile. The other is Joe Bellino.”

Admiral Ed Straw related this story: Former Navy running back great Napoleon McCallum met Joe Bellino for the first time at a dinner party.

"Napoleon reaches his hand toward Joe and says, 'Mr. Bellino, it's an honor to meet the best running back in Naval Academy history. Joe taps Napoleon on his massive chest, looks him in the eye and says, 'First of all Napoleon, the name is Joe, and second, you are the best running back in Naval Academy history.

"Joe had no ego”

At a Boston College/ Navy game the fans in attendance at Alumni Stadium in Chestnut Hill looked on anxiously, thinking the star runner had suffered an injury. It turned out the Midshipmen were wearing new knee-length socks for the first time that day and they were extremely tight. Bellino, whose calves were as thick as some men's thighs, had his circulation cut off by the elastic rims at the top of the stockings and his feet had turned blue. Navy trainers had to cut off the top of the socks to allow Bellino to continue to play that day.

A Sports Illustrated article in 1960 said , “All in all, Army and Navy bear a striking similarity, except for one thing; Army does not have Joseph Michael Bellino. Joe has been playing football since he was 10 years old and no one has yet caught him from behind.

In 1991 Bellino was the first inductee into the Winchester Sports Foundation Hall of Fame.

He was modest, no sense of status, no braggadocio, quiet and unassuming. He was a man of character and humility.

Bellino was selected in 17th round of the 1961 NFL Draft by the Washington Redskins, as well as in the 19th round of the 1961 AFL Draft by the Boston Patriots. After fulfilling his military commitment he signed with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, and played three seasons, primarily as a kick returner

If Joe Bellino were here today I would think he would have 3 catch phrases for the Team Captains.

Respect is paramount to good sportsmanship.

Lose with dignity.

Win with humility.
