Harold Duffield—SCORE

SCORE is proud to have the nation's largest network of volunteer, expert business mentors. They help thousands of entrepreneurs start and grow their small businesses every year. Volunteers give back to their communities and pass on their knowledge to the next generation of entrepreneurs.

For over 50 years, SCORE has served as America's premier source of free business mentoring and education.

As a resource partner of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), SCORE has helped more than 11 million entrepreneurs through mentoring, workshops and educational resources since 1964.

When you buy or start your own small business, ideally, it's doing something you know and love. Whether it's designing jewelry, building houses, running a coffee shop, or providing in-home health care, you wouldn't be doing it if you didn't know and love it. What you might not know anything about—or care much for—is keeping the books. The finer points of bookkeeping, accounting, and tax preparation are not something most people do for a hobby. But as a small business owner, you often have to handle those tasks yourself, at least until you're making enough revenue to hire someone to do it for you. In San Diego, mentor Harry Duffield is the money man SCORE clients turn to for help.
