You may not be as healthy as you think! By combining full body MRI and genome history along with sophisticated data analysis, Dr. David Karow, CEO of Human Longevity, Inc. has found, with over 3,000 patients that about 40% of them have diseases they didn't know they had and that about 17% are actionable in the near term to forestall illness that was coming.

His position is that in the long term he hopes that medicine will change from treating patients who have aches and pains and complaints about quality of life to discovering the disease before it debilitates the patient and prevent its consequences.

They have found that their efforts have added one to nine years to patients' lives. They can reduce and predict the effects of alzheimers, liver/cancers/aneurysms and other ailments.

Currently the costs are prohibitive to the general public, but he sees it eventually being offered at your local pharmacy.
