John Manners is 'Living the Dream' at Royal Troon

"I hope you have all been watching the spectacular British Open at Royal Troon Golf Course, Scotland.

The photograph on our front page shows the marshal outfit I am wearing and it's a very special shot of me with world ranked No. 1 golfer, Jason Day.

He was kind enough to chat, pose for the photo and sign my red golf hat. He did similarly for everyone who approached him with a ready smile and great patience.

What a role model for any sport. I was thinking he'd make a great Rotary

'sports ambassador' if he could be approached and asked! A family man first and foremost with a level head about his wealth, fame and good fortune.

'Go Aussie go' I said to him as I shook his hand before he walked on. 'You betcha digger' he responded. A moment to savour.

As a marshal, my designated hole is number 7. The seats for all stands accommodate 18,000 people and there is an 800 seat stand on the 7th. This section of the course is one of the busiest with multiple viewing areas to police as well as two crossings, tee and green plus stand..... 'I'm very busy'.

Stay well and happy my fellow Rotary friends. I'm 'living the dream'!

Regards

John Manners

Mountain Ghost

Fish is on the menu at the Sydney Seafood School. You do everything else without having to catch it!

There are two things the Mountain Ghost likes to do and he does both to excess. He likes to drink and he likes to eat. He also likes to cook.

He has just attended his third Seafood Cooking class at the Sydney Seafood School located at the Sydney Fish Markets at Pyrmont (I know it is a long trip from the Mountains but you will thank the Ghost when you eat the food you have prepared)

The classes are fantastic...You choose what you feel you are capable of doing – you can extend your ability because there are many trained chefs to help you.

First you go to an auditorium where the chef demonstrates how to cook the seafood. After the demonstration everyone goes off to the state-of-the-art kitchens and in groups of five you recreate the meal that you have just been shown.

The chefs come around and assist you with the preparation and cooking (you are also given the recipe to keep). Then comes the good bit. You take your meal to the restaurant and enjoy it with a bottle of wine. The Ghost was amazed that he had cooked a chilli crab and barbequed sardines for example.

The Ghost recommends going to the school as a group, say a few friends together (remembering you cook in groups of five) or take the kids and grandkids. The courses range from two to four hours, depending on the complexity of the meal. Prices range from $90 a head to $165 a head for four hours. The Ghost has a tip for you. If you get on the Sydney Seafood School mailing list they will advise you of upcoming classes and if a class is not filled they offer it at a discount.

A little bit of history

13,000 people attend the SSS each year. The most popular course by far is the Seafood Barbeque Course. The Ghost has used Sydney Seafood Gift Vouchers as a different gift for a special occasion. The School has been in operation for almost 30 years.
