Cape Town's Scenic Roadwork Routes

A new offering for local and foreign tourists

In keeping with Cape Town's mission to promote all its natural and man-made wonders, these routes are now offered to all tourists driving around our fair city. Already enjoyed for years by local commuters, tourists are now also encouraged to experience their many pleasures.

Our many roadworks are available to enjoy all year round, bringing you the wonders of stop-go's, long delays and exciting grid-locks. You will be able to enjoy these with the colourful locals, unless they are in a mini-bus taxi, which stops for nothing. The routes are totally free of charge (apart from your increased petrol bill) and highly flexible. You can start anywhere in greater Cape Town and drive in any direction. Within a short distance, you are guaranteed to encounter a sample of our many interesting and varied roadworks. Keep driving and you will find many more. Most delays involved are long enough for a good number of selfies to send to your envious family and friends.

The roadworks have blossomed for a number of good reasons. New traffic lanes are being added on our highways, to enable happy commuters to arrive at their next bottleneck even quicker and then queue for even longer. Workers in particular, will not have to worry about getting to work any sooner. Attractive robots (traffic lights to some tourists) are being installed all over the city to ensure even more stop-start traffic and uneven traffic flow. Road-side cycle and walking tracks being built in many places and when complete, are even put to use by a small number of locals. Sometimes, long-stretches of highway are creatively coned-off for no discernible reason at all.

At first, citizens thought that all these roadworks were just a passing phase in the development of the city, but long experience shows they (and all their attractions) are here to stay. For the more daring, there are a number of new driving games to relieve any potential boredom, such as Lively Lane Changing, Road-rage Roulette, Block the Taxi, Emergency Lane Exploring and Pavement Poker.

Cape Town's roadworks now compete with the best in the large cities of the world. The city is justifiably proud of the addition of the Roadblock Routes to the many tourist attractions on offer. An investigation is under way to determine a suitable city with which to twin and share the joys of Roadwork Route tourism.

Tourists will be pleased to know that a (frequently updated) electronic map will soon be available, showing all the exciting opportunities, as more and more innovative roadworks are added. Should you encounter any significant stretch of roadway without any roadworks, please address your complaint to the city without delay. They seek to please.

What to take on the routes: Lots of time, a full tank of petrol, cell-phone, sufficient liquids, a good book, a sealable urine receptacle, step ladder (to see over the truck or 4x4 in front of you), mini-braai (for the long waits), camp chair and a sense of humour.

GRACE & TOAST: Menno

WOODEN SPOON Passed from Jenny Ibbotson to Peter Ennis for his special and consistent service to the club as our treasurer and bulletin editor.

WINE SWINDLE:

Guest draw was won by Graham Parkhurst and the Members draw by Andy.

SPEAKER:

Mike Walwyn introduced our speaker DR ROBIN CATCHPOLE who as an astronomer has done major research into the "history" of the Universe.

SPEECH TITLE: ARE WE ALONE?

Dr Catchpole gave us the key factors and events that most probably would be required to sustain life as we know it, on our and other planets in other star systems. To do this he gave us an introduction & some background on the evolution and hierarchy of life on earth, examples of the tenacity of life surviving in extreme conditions and about water & oxygen, being key to life, having been found on a number of planets and other heavenly bodies. If a planet is the right distance from its sun and the right size relatively then it might have the right atmosphere and hence water.

He also explained other key factors like the development of oxygen, the different views of researchers, viz. Darwin & Hauser regarding the "Origin of Mind" (i.e. the difference between Homo Sapiens as "conscious communicators" and other life forms on earth) and the threats to the "eternal existence" (50 000 years plus) of our planet and perhaps planets in other star systems and whether we will we be around long enough to obtain enough facts to answer the question? Our key threats are climate change, volcanoes, comets impacting with earth and the lifetime of certain species which are required for the balance of life.

Dr Catchpole made some predictions about the future astronomical study and research and especially the improvement of the power of telescopes and of the types & uses of laser systems and also about the Drake Equation which supposedly can be used to calculate the lifetime of civilisations using suppositions and facts.

After all these facts and figures he ended with a quote that the answer to the question: Are We Alone? is "Queerer than we can suppose"

Many questions were asked, which indicated that Dr Catchpole's address was thought provoking and very well presented. Johan Beukman thanked our speaker and rewarded him with our standard gift.

A tasty 3 course meal was provided and we enjoyed much fellowship between members and guests.

SPOTS:

- Jenny Ibbotson asked for a volunteer to mentor a university bursary student.
- Jenny Howard thanked and complemented Sheila Walwyn for planning and organising the décor for the tables at the induction dinner.
- Menno De Wet thanked Jenny Howard and her team for their contributions in making the induction dinner a success.
- Andy Ismay reminded the entrepreneurship committee of their monthly meeting after the main meeting.

PRESIDENT'S SLOT:

Acting President Colin congratulated the Paul Harris Fellowship recipients and called up Terry Lancaster to receive his PHF gong and certificate as he had been away and could not attend the induction dinner.

As there were no birthdays and anniversaries that week he asked our Sergeant to do her slot.

SERGEANT'S SLOT

Incoming President Graham, Nora See, Geoff von Kemperer, Abe Oliver, Bill Holland, Graham Parkhurst, Richard Burnett, Brian Pickup, Garnet Carr, Terry Lancaster generously gave "Happy Rands" and indicated why they were so happy.

Jenny closed the meeting and encouraged further fellowship.
