Guest Speaker

Chairman Brian Kretschmer introduced guest speaker Michael Neale. Brian then outlined Michael's profile and a description of his business 'LITERALLY BRILLIANT'.

Changing from Mission-Led to Purpose-Led: The role of the mutual exchange and keeping of promises.

There has been a lot of talk lately about transforming from mission-led organisations (talking about what we do) to become purpose-led organisations (talking about the benefit we provide). But what does this really mean, how do you do it and is it really a new idea?

Michael Neale is Managing Director and Principal Consultant of strategy consulting firm Literally Brilliant. He helps organisations understand what makes them BRILLIANT in the eyes of their stakeholders, helps them to articulate that as a brand promise and then helps them re-organise to deliver that brand promise LITERALLY every day. He will explain how "the mutual exchange and keeping your promises" forms an essential part of becoming a purpose-led organisation. It is a concept that is as valid for a commercial business, as it is for a service organisation, community group, or even a local sporting club.

Michael has had over 35 years' experience in strategic marketing roles and strategy consulting roles in Australia and the UK. After completing his first University degree, he undertook a Masters research degree whilst working full time. He has maintained an academic research interest with recent tier-one publications and is currently visiting fellow at the Adelaide Business School, University of Adelaide. Michael is also a Trustee of the History Trust of the South Australia and Chair of the Bay to Birdwood.

Michael has never been a member of Rotary but has had a life-long exposure to the organisation through his father, Reg Neale, and his brother Jeff.

Michael spoke dynamically and enthusiastically about the way he encourages businesses to reassess their goals and the manner in which they operate.

He said when businesses are asked about their mode of operation, they claim to be customer orientated when, in reality, their main focus is on profitability.

Michael explained that the Company Directors, Managers and Staff all have to be constantly aware of the need to give the customers the best possible experience and then profitability will follow.

Mary-Anne Hannay thanked Michael for his presentation.

“Literally Brilliant helps companies understand what makes them BRILLIANT in the eyes of their customers, what differentiates them from their competitors and how they add real value. We help them articulate this as a brand promise and then organise their business to deliver that promise LITERALLY every day. We call this the LITERALLY BRILLIANT™ Process.”

Jim Owler – Jim thanked all who took part in the meeting on Tuesday 30th May at the Shed assembling the birthing kits, with special thanks to the organisers, John Dubberley and Phil Smith.

Jim also thanked Greg Rogers for drafting design plans for the shelter in front of the Shed in Linde Reserve.

Bill Winslow reported on the installation of the ‘Peace Pole’ at the Rose Park Primary School.

He said the students were very attentive and interested in the role of Rotary in the Community.

Mary-Anne Hannay reported on attending the Rotary District Centenary Dinner and also the establishment of the new Rotary Club of Lightsview.

She was privileged to have a conversation with the incoming Rotary World President, R. Gordon R. McNally.

John Gallehawk - You’d all be aware of the Women’s shelter at Linda Reserve. It caters for women and kids who’ve come from family abuse.

We’ve helped them as a club before but they’re in constant need without any serious govt support. They also have several restrictions to making themselves more vocal in advertising and promotion. This is largely due to the privacy required for these women who attend the centre.

They are in fact holding a dinner, later this month on the 24th which is a Saturday night. The details if you want to attend are....

Venue— — Chennai Palace in Walkerville terrace

The total cost is $100 p.p. however that includes wine on the table, entertainment, the meal and a thorough explanation of what’s being achieved.

The intention is to ensure from that money, a figure of $50 going to the centre toward their ongoing costs.

Thanks

Romaine Dawson – Next Saturday the sailing ship One and All will arrive at Port Adelaide with students, including one sponsored by our Club, returning from the Melbourne Rotary International Convention.

Brian Kretschmer - Rotary International World Convention in Melbourne

Rotary's founder, Paul Harris, convened the first Rotary Convention in 1910 for 16 clubs in America. This eventually became the World Rotary International Convention which is held yearly near the end of the Rotary year.

President Pam, Secretary Wendy and myself attended the 4 day event in Melbourne. Upwards to 20,000 Rotarians were expected to participate. The convention was held over 2 sites in Melbourne – the Rod Laver Arena and the Melbourne Convention & Exhibition Centre.

At Rod Laver Arena sessions were held from 10am to 12MD where speakers form different organisations as well as Rotarians gave insight to various projects and issues. There were three speakers that certainly got my attention over the 4 days.

- Past World Rotary International President, Ian Riseley, (whom we hosted in Adelaide in mid March) Ian talked mainly about his role as Foundation chair and End Polio Now campaign
- Co-Founders of Global Citizens that is closely aligned with Rotary
 - o Ryan Gall
 - o Hugh Evans

One of them said

- The best thing Rotary has done is start the eradication of Polio in 1978 and the next best thing will be to end Polio Now

There are now only 3 to 5 cases of polio only in Afghanistan from an estimated 350,000 cases in 1978!

After the Rod Laver sessions there were Breakout sessions in the Melbourne Convention & Exhibition Centre as well as food and exhibits in the House of Friendship. These exhibits were from clubs around the world as well as Australian.

I am a member of the Rotary Wine Appreciation Fellowship and joined also the Rotary Fellowship of Gin – ONLY because part of your membership goes to Aquabox which is a water purifier for safe drinking water to those in desperate need – The group only started about 2 years ago in Derbyshire in the UK – I like to help out Rotary Clubs!! When I said I make my own they even invited me to speak about it on their Zoom meetings!!

I went to breakout sessions around membership, youth and club growth through projects and fellowship.

The photo displayed of PIRP Ian Riseley was to raise funds for End Polio – I wanted to purchase one to take over to San Francisco on our trip in July but they were sold out!!

Hopefully it will arrive before we leave in Late June.

From the President

Rotary Convention Melbourne Overview

Four folk from the Rotary Club of St Peters enjoyed the Convention.

The Opening Ceremony with the RI President Jennifer Jones was a highlight. Jennifer was Guest of Honour at the Opening Ceremony held at the Rod Laver Arena. I was told the attendance was 12,000 people from countries worldwide.

Each day Keynote Speakers and Presenters informed attendees of projects.

In the House of Friendship displays covered hundreds of topics. I was pleased to meet members of the Food Plant Solutions from Tasmania who we met on Zoom last year thanks to Rotarians Milton Jones and Una Hobbs.

The Peace Poles have proven popular. Here there were the set that will be put in a local Melbourne park.

I was moved by the set of Peace Bells. I understand there are a set in Canberra placed by Rotary. In this display there are four bells... only two pictured... and here is the rationale...

We invite you to strike each bell in turn from Left to Right to announce your pledges to help Build Peace

While the bell sounds reflect on the steps that you will commit to taking towards peace in your world

- FIRST SEEK PEACE WITHIN
- SECOND MAKE PEACE AT HOME
- THIRD CREATE PEACE IN YOUR COMMUNITY
- FOURTH FOSTER PEACE BETWEEN PEOPLES AND LANDS

Listen to the bells and celebrate every step towards peace
IMAGINE our world if everyone takes these steps

More Convention News next week.
