David Choi was our representative at Sci/Tec Forum in January. He is a year 13 student at Rangitoto with a passion for science and numbers. He is a New Zealand born Korean and lives in Dairy Flat with an interest in movies and books as they give you a different perspective on life. He enjoys football and volleyball (especially at the forum). As the BOT student representative and a deputy head boy he aims to make the school a better place. Volunteering at the hospice shop and also working part-time keeps him busy. His school subjects are varied from the normal Science and Maths to English, Classics, Accounting and Economics.

At the forum they attended two modules/ lectures a day and had options to try new things. He really enjoyed the lab work and the beach day. Three things he learnt from the forum – insight into the true uses of science and technology, a better idea of his future (changed from medicine to bioengineering) and the great friendships he made with like-minded peers all over New Zealand. He then showed us a video of the forum taken by one of his friends. He thanked Rotary very much for the opportunity.

For those that did not know on Monday.

Most Māori chiefs signed the Māori-language version of the treaty at Waitangi on 6 February 1840 or later in the north and at Auckland. A recent translation of the articles of the Māori version follows:

The First

The chiefs of the Confederation and all the chiefs who have not joined that Confederation give absolutely to the Queen of England for ever the complete government over their land.

The Second

The Queen of England agrees to protect the chiefs, the subtribes and all the people of New Zealand in the unqualified exercise of their chieftainship over their lands, villages and all their treasures. But on the other hand the chiefs of the Confederation and all the chiefs will sell land to the Queen at a price agreed to by the person owning it and by the person buying it (the latter being) appointed by the Queen as her purchase agent.

The Third

For this agreed arrangement therefore concerning the government of the Queen, the Queen of England will protect all the ordinary people of New Zealand and will give them the same rights and duties of citizenship as the people of England.

As the following official English version of the treaty shows, there were some important differences between the two versions, especially in the terminology of the first and second articles:

'Article the first

The Chiefs of the Confederation of the United Tribes of New Zealand and the separate and independent Chiefs who have not become members of the Confederation cede to her Majesty the Queen of England absolutely and without reservation all the rights and powers of Sovereignty which the said Confederation or Individual Chiefs respectively exercise or possess, or may be supposed to exercise or to possess over their respective Territories as the sole sovereigns thereof.

Article the second

Her Majesty the Queen of England confirms and guarantees to the Chiefs and Tribes of New Zealand and to the respective families and individuals thereof the full exclusive and undisturbed possession of their Lands and Estates Forests Fisheries and other properties which they may collectively or individually possess so long as it is their wish and desire to retain the same in their possession; but the Chiefs of the United Tribes and the individual Chiefs yield to Her Majesty the exclusive right of Pre-emption over such lands as the proprietors thereof may be disposed to alienate at such prices as may be agreed upon between the respective Proprietors and persons appointed by Her Majesty to treat with them in that behalf.

Article the third

In consideration thereof Her Majesty the Queen of England extends to the Natives of New Zealand Her royal protection and imparts to them all the Rights and Privileges of British Subjects.'
