Apologies to Gary 473 9295 or gary@mtl.co.nz this week.

From President Jennifer.

My head has been buzzing with the idea of “projects” after Matthew McLeod’s presentation on Monday. When you think about it, life is full of projects all the time: projects at home, at school, in the garden, at work, with friends and with Rotary. Activities like this keep us engaged, enthused, possibly a bit fitter, the brain exercised, and reward us with a sense of achievement. Sometimes the planning is as exciting as the doing. And yes, sometimes it is a bit of a chore, but maybe that was the wrong choice of project in the first place.

Some of our Club projects are fundraisers, essential because we have so many good causes to support. We aren’t doing so much of the smaller community based projects though and these are not only valuable for our community but rewarding for us, especially if they come with a social sausage sizzle at the end.

Some of the best are modest, impromptu and quickly completed. Think of the Mosgiel Rotary Club last year rebuilding a (council) condemned children’s treehouse last year. It took five Rotarians a morning to build a regulations compliant treehouse resulting in three happy boys, a relieved mother, satisfied Rotarians and national news coverage!

So keep an ear to the ground for good ideas, things that would help our community, be fun to do, a bit of a challenge maybe.

We have all sorts of expertise in the club, plenty of “planners” and “do-ers” and “organisers” to make things work.

We have committee meetings next Monday - could be something to discuss then.

Notices. Gary ran a successful night for new members at President Jennifer's.

Matthew McLeod is District membership Chair is interested in harness racing and has shares in individual horses.

He gave one of the most interesting and informative talks about membership that we have heard. Once we attract new members, they need to become engaged.

Over the last five years in our district 147 left within a year and 250 in the next year. There were various reasons including business, cost, boring, clique and not right for them. Members joined because they wanted to do something, for networking, to gain leadership skills and help youth.

Keys to Being a Vibrant Club

- Offer Rotary learning opportunities [RLI]
 - Financed by Club & District
 - Encourage groups of members to attend
 - Report back with one proposal for innovation or new project
- Get newer members leading projects
- Prepare members for future leadership roles

Rotary

Keys to Being a Vibrant Club

- Conduct meaningful projects
 - Quick hands-on projects [max 2 hours] with BBQ or food afterwards
 - Share the success – great stories inspire !
 - Invite new members to find a community project – put up some $$$'s to fund it
- Try new ideas
 - Conduct a Health Check
 - Vary meeting formats [e.g. times/style/venue]
 - Why do we have no clubs with weekend meetings?

Rotary

He listed some keys to being a vibrant club:
 Mentor new members
 Allocate new members to Community service/Projects team not fellowship or behind the bar
 President/president elect should meet with individually with new members for a coffee chat to get to know them – see photos. He also gave some examples from Orewa/Millwater and Henderson satellite clubs.
 They involved doing small projects in the community with community people – see photos. District are offering financial rebates to help members partners and alumni to join Rotary and to help set up new member schemes.
