President Jennifer. Club forum is always an interesting evening, a chance to get an overview on Club plans for the year. The Pecha Kucha format added a bit of zest to it, kept us engaged and guessing. Thank-you to all the committee chairs (and Amanda) for putting that extra thought into the presentations.

As usual there are plenty of projects to support. Some of these are regular commitments - RYLA, MUNA, Challenge Camp, Science Forum and the Trees for Survival and reading assistance programme. All very valuable and ones we want to keep up.

There was also the theme coming through that it would be really good to have more hands-on projects. There is some hands-on in the Trees for Survival and also the Plunket Solids courses and these also remind our community that yes, Rotary is around and active. These activities need not be large or involved events, but can be rewarding and sociable. The best way to enjoy being of service to our community. If you have any ideas of projects you would like to see us involved in, let us know.

When we were recently in Feilding, visiting our new extended family, we met a very interesting Paul Harris Fellow, recognised for his enormous effort in spearheading the restoration of one of the last remnants of swamp forest in the area. He was thrilled to hear of the Trees for Survival and how the young students are so actively involved in it. He visits schools to educate and inspire, but the students aren't encouraged to be out planting and getting hands dirty.

This meeting on Monday we have, apart from an interesting speaker running a "Citizens's Project" assessing the water quality of Lake Pupuke, a surprise visit from KAASO - the Ugandan School and Community project that East Coast Bays supported back in 2010. Volunteers Cherie and Emma were involved then and the couple who run the school, Dominic and Rose, are here on a flying visit to NZ. It will be good to hear how the project is progressing. A busy meeting on Monday!

Darius has now returned home E-mail: darius.lehmann@stud.kszh.ch

The Fellowship committee and others who helped with the Governor changeover were once again thanked.

Forum – the format of talking to a slide with minimal writing on it provided a pleasant change.

Sean – showed us we had a reasonably constant membership which had aged slightly but we continue to have turnover which needs to be reduced. Cost is a problem and we need to change. How? We need more hands-on projects that involve younger people and provide local exposure. Are we stretching too far to be involved in everything especially all the youth projects?

Gary – club development. We have a blank page – an open book. Diversification as well as retaining members is needed. Perhaps we need more mentoring and to look towards the citation goals for this year. There will be another meet and greet in April 2020.

Ian –Fellowship- we are a strong club and aim to have fun. Field trips suggested are Rotoroa, Tiritiri, Motutapu, Ayrlies Gardens Whitford.

Reintroduce TGIF- Little Creatures Brewery. Bridgeway Theatre for a film. Christmas Do still being planned. Feedback would be appreciated.

Carol-Local projects-past, possible, potential. Trees for Survival provided an environmental project as well as a hands-on component as did the Plunket practical solids course. Carol hopes to do something new! Movies, Marathon marshalling and the Pinehurst BBQ will provide some funds.

President Jennifer-cluster meeting show we are involved in more things than some clubs. We have a cohesive friendly club but need to bring in some shorter more visible projects. We need another fundraiser which involves non-Rotarians- may be with other clubs.

Small deeds done are better than large deeds planned.
