THE MAGIC OF ROTARY

Help us fund a specialist Apheresis Nurse to improve quality of care and survival chances for children with high-risk cancers.

THE SCIENCE

Children with high-risk cancers require very high doses of chemotherapy and radiation. Increasing treatment intensity significantly improves long-term survival for some high risk disease types. Apheresis Therapy uses the child's own stem cells, extracted, strengthened and reintroduced to the child's body at the optimal time, enabling them to withstand higher doses of chemotherapy and radiation, significantly improving their chance of survival.

THE NEED

Monash Children's Hospital already has the equipment, facilities and medical expertise to provide Apheresis Therapy to our young patients. The missing piece of the puzzle is an in-house Apheresis Clinical Nurse Consultant to deliver the program.

THE IMPACT

One hospital, one team, one journey to recovery. No more transfers to another hospital, no more navigating two hospital systems, fewer disruptions to routine, and less stress for the entire family. Overall, a far better patient experience for very sick children.

THE FUTURE

Apheresis Therapy will also be a vital part of delivering personalised "Precision Medicine" that is the future of cancer treatment. That future isn't far away and providing this specialised nursing role now will equip Monash Children's Hospital for many years to come.
