The final part of the meeting was a general club meeting which was opened by SAA Rick Rees and the National Anthem. Rick introduced two guests, Dr Andrea Degan who will be talking to

DG Paikit then addressed members saying that RCRHH is one of the largest and active clubs within his District and he congratulated members for that.

He then spoke about Rotary's Global Action Plan

- 1. Increasing Impact Projects can help achieve this and he talked about Global Grants that allow wealthier countries to support poorer ones.
- 2. Expand Reach Helping members of the community who have been overlooked or forgotten by other organisations and at the very bottom tier of society.

- 3. Enhance Rotary Engagement Urging all members to become involved with projects and collaborating with other clubs and organisations to achieve this.
- 4. Increase ability to adapt DG Paikit explained in many cases this has already been achieved because of the pandemic. Clubs had turned to zoom meetings and alternative methods of meeting during the lockdowns. He said it was important Rotary continues to adapt and evolve in its 117th year.

DG Paikit then discussed the Rotary International President Shekhar Mehta goals for his time in office.

- 1. Increase membership to 1.3 million.
- 2. Empowering young females (under 18) to have a better life in poorer countries and preventing such things as forced marriages and the sex industry.
- 3. End Polio.
- 4. Fighting the Coronavirus
- 5. Rotary day of challenge service projects in collaboration with another organisation or Rotaractors.

DG Paikit said that the RCRHH had already achieved three out of these five goals with their work so far this year and just needed to increase their membership in line with the goals and a project to empower females.

Following the address P Phil gave an update on the Rotary Education Centre and Thai Voices projects which (both of which are well documented on CR).

P Phil then talked about the Thai Voices web site set up with the Phetchaburi Panyanukul School, the brainchild of member Dr Keith Humphreys.

Keith had identified significant differences in how children were being taught in different schools and change on mindset of both teachers and children was required.

Keith has worked tirelessly on this project which has included taking a group of teachers to Hong Kong to view how a previous project had worked and creating a teacher learning groups to re-write the Thai national curriculum.

To assist the process the Thai Voices web site has been created and sponsored by the RCRHH which can accessed by anyone and used by all the Panyanukul Schools in Thailand.

It is hoped to kick start this project in early 2022, once schools have fully reopened.

The projects were well received by the DG, who suggested applying for a Global Grant to continue the excellent works achieved so far.

Then followed the usual excellent lunch provided by the Amari Hotel.

The raffle for a bottle of wine was won by Pascal Zollinger.
