

Volunteering at the Eva Tilley Café

The Eva Tilley Aged Care residential facility in North Balwyn has renewed its invitation for volunteers to assist its café service for residents and visitors now that Covid restrictions are easing.

RCNB has had a long standing association with Eva Tilley and over the years members of the Club have served on its Board, including David Cheney, Ian Adams and currently Tony Wells.

The Club has remained active in its support for Eva Tilley and the current school gardening program is a good example which has been well received. Another ongoing connection has been a successful series of music recitals for residents conducted by Rowan McClean and Maurie Walters.

The current call for volunteers for the café is another good opportunity to support Eva Tilley. Members and Friends of the Club would be welcome, along with others in their families.

The following flyer spells out the need and Tony Wells (0400 077 647 or welstar@bigpond.com) could provide more information. You will note there are some formalities required, including a police check which is similar to the Rotary requirement for activities and programs working with children.

Eva Tilley is a remarkable not-for-profit facility providing outstanding care for about 100 elderly people in our own community and volunteering is one way we can support their work and contribution.

Tony would look forward to hearing from those who may be interested.
