Through a partnership with Habitat for Humanity clearly the community benefits through an addition of new housing stock. Home values in the area are increased with this new addition.

The recipient of the home benefits in that their family is able to live in a clean environment with children being raised in a home that leads to a much better environment, safer living, better learning and healthier living.

The mission of The Rotary Foundation is to enable Rotarians to advance world understanding, goodwill, and peace through the improvement of health, the support of education, and the alleviation of poverty.

How will this project meet the mission of Rotary Foundation?

What a great question. Habitat for Humanity has an ongoing mission to alleviate poverty

Homeownership leads to:

Increases in:

- Graduation rates.
- Children's good health.
- Net family wealth.

Decreases in:

- Children's behavioral problems.
- Reliance on government assistance.
- · Asthma.

I omeownership is a crucial foundation for helping low-income families find a path out of poverty. When they move out of substandard housing and into simple, decent, affordable homes, homeowners and their families frequently improve their health, educational attainment, safety and personal wealth.

"A quality home is more than just a roof and walls," said Renée Glover, chair of Habitat for Humanity International's board of directors. "It provides homeowners with feelings of stability and pride, as well as generating measureable results such as decreased doctor visits and increased high school graduation rates.

"Academic research and surveys point to one inescapable conclusion: that owning one's home enhances quality of life in a variety of specific, verifiable ways. This is true whether the homes are associated with Habitat for Humanity or not."

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development says studies have shown that "homeowners accumulate wealth as the investment in their homes grows, enjoy better living conditions, are often more involved in their communities, and have children who tend on average to do better in school and are less likely to become involved with crime."

The research is clear:

Homeownership leads to better health.

- "A safe, decent, affordable home is like a vaccine," Dr. Megan Sandel of the Boston University School of Medicine testified to Congress in 2007. "It literally prevents disease. A safe home can prevent mental health and developmental problems, a decent home may prevent asthma or lead poisoning, and an affordable home can prevent stunted growth and unnecessary hospitalizations."
- Poor housing conditions contribute to asthma and other physical illnesses. Decent, affordable housing can help children with asthma address their health needs, according to a report by the Center for Housing Policy.
- A national survey of Habitat homeowners found that 74 percent said their families' overall health had improved since moving into their home.

Homeownership leads to greater educational achievements.

- Children of homeowners are significantly more likely to stay in school until age 17 than children of renters, especially in low-income households, according to a study in the Journal of Urban Economics.
- Children in homeowning families outperform children in renting families in both math and reading achievement tests, even when other factors are the same. These children will have fewer behavioral problems, higher educational attainment and greater future earnings, according to a study by an Ohio State University economist.
- A 2011 survey of U.S. Habitat homeowners by the University of Southern Indiana found that 57 percent of adults in the households were furthering their education.
- The graduation rate for children of homeowners is 19 percent higher than for renters, and they are twice as likely to acquire some postsecondary education, according to a study in a journal published by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Homeownership provides better security and safety.

- A study of violent crime in New York City suburbs found that homeownership status significantly reduced a house hold's incidence of crime. Another study showed that homeowners have significantly less risk of being subject to a violent assault.
- According to a survey of more than 400 Habitat homeowners in Minnesota conducted by Wilder Research of St. Paul, 83 percent consider their children safer after the family's move into a Habitat home.

A 2011 national survey of Habitat homeowners by the University of Southern Indiana found that 84 percent felt safe in their neighborhoods.

Homeownership helps generate wealth building and a pathway out of poverty.

- "For most buyers, homeownership leads to wealth creation." stated a report in the Journal of Housing Studies. "As home equity increases, some homeowners may decide that they have the financial resources to secure additional education for themselves or their children."
- "The median net wealth of low-income homeowners is dramatically higher than the median net wealth of low-income renters," according to a 2005 report by the Joint Center for Housing Studies.
- The Minnesota survey of Habitat homeowners found that 53 percent said they have more money since moving into their Habitat home; two-thirds are more confident about their ability to fund their children's college education; and almost 40 percent said they pay less in housing costs. Use of government assistance also declined notably.
- A 2014 study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston of homes with a student about to enter college found that a modest increase in home value for homeowners led to an increase in the child's earnings later in life, while an increase in a property's value for renters led to a decrease in the child's earnings.

The benefits of homeownership are indisputable. Since 1976, Habitat for Humanity has helped more than 1 million families worldwide with housing solutions leading to decent, affordable shelter. That represents about 5 million people. We will continue to work toward a world where everyone has a decent place to live, and where measurable improvements in health, education, security and wealth generation are enjoyed by more and more homeowners.

Dan Diamon Superior Rotary 40 Superior, WI 54880

Dear Dan and Fellow Rotarians:

Thank you for considering matching club and district-level grant support for our current Habitat house build project at 1001 N. 7th Street in Superior, WI. Rotary involvement and support as partners in this effort has been critical to our progress. As a relatively new Rotary member and 19-month Habitat executive director, I cannot begin to list all the ways that Rotary membership has helped me move the Habitat mission forward in the region.

We have been excited to team with Superior Rotary 40 on several pieces of this build. We have three Rotary workdays scheduled from April 20-22 to install siding donated by the Louisiana Pacific Corporation. This will be in conjunction with the family and their social and work circles painting the interior. And The City Church has just agreed to host lunches those three days so all the volunteers can interact, build community, and share their experiences in serving the great good.

As we speak, sheetrock mudding and taping is going on in the house by a highly skilled professional who came to our attention through Rotary networking. This professional is giving us a very good price for his work thanks to encouragement from Rotary members. The fact that another Rotarian donated the sheetrock and related materials no doubt reinforced this spirit of generosity and community service.

We are now excited to be a part of Superior Rotary 40's grant proposal for kitchen and bath cabinets and counter tops. We certainly would agree to cooperate in a financial review of the project if needed.

This house project is the first one from the ground up in our service area in seven years. This house will belong to a grandmother and the three grandchildren she took responsibility for four years ago. Theresa's mortgage payments to this affiliate will support subsequent builds; the home will provide a base of strength, stability and self-reliance for this family to grow and flourish. And the good news is that we will be breaking ground for a second house kitty corner from the current project in mid-May. So another family will be benefiting from home ownership in Superior.

Rotary support has been central to the re-emergence of Habitat's work with families and the community in this region. We would greatly welcome the financial support to complete the kitchen and bathroom work during the project's home stretch. Thank you for considering that support.

Sincerely,

David A Clanaugh, WLSHFH Executive Director
