Movie Night - Bringing The Light:

The Story of Seven Women

Stephanie Woollard began Seven Women at only 22, after meeting seven disabled women operating out of a tin shed in Kathmandu struggling to make a living and enduring harsh discrimination. Since then, over 5,000 women have been educated, trained, and employed transforming their lives and their communities. This raw and authentic documentary explores the difficulties of overcoming stigma in Nepalese society while showcasing the importance of finding your people on the path to social and economic empowerment.
