

Who is considered the founder of The Rotary Foundation?

How many people were afflicted by polio each year when the Global Polio Eradication Initiative started in 1988?

You can find answers to these questions — and much more — in “Doing Good in the World: The Inspiring Story of The Rotary Foundation’s First 100 Years.” Written by David Forward, 2015-16 district governor, and illustrated with striking photographs, this book tells the fascinating tale of how determination and generosity turned an initial contribution of $26.50 into a leading humanitarian organization.

The 328-page cloth-bound edition is available for $40, and a limited-edition, leather-bound copy for $100.
