COLLEGE FOOTBALL

A chat with Bobby Bowden

Coach discusses Frost, Fisher at Texas A&M, Alabama during Omaha visit

By Eric Olson

AP College Football Writer

OMAHA — Former Florida State coach Bobby Bowden is 88 and still keeps a busy schedule of speaking engagements.

On Wednesday he was in Omaha
— his fourth city in a week — to receive the Tom Osborne Legacy Award for his contributions to college football and leadership in the community.

He spoke at a Rotary Club luncheon and appeared at the Outland Trophy Banquet.

In between, Bowden sat down with The Associated Press to discuss the program at Florida State, where he won more than 300 games and two national championships from 1976-2009, in addition to Alabama's latest title and his memories of beating Osborne's Nebraska team for the 1993 title.

AP: What did you think of your successor, Jimbo Fisher, leaving Florida State to take the Texas A&M job?

Bowden: I did not think he would go. I know he wanted a football building, training table, a place to take care of injuries. He saw that he can get everything he wants at Texas A&M — everything. Money? He didn't have to worry about that. He didn't have (a new building) at Florida State, but they were going to get it for him. It was going to take a while.

AP: How is he going to like the SEC West?

Bowden: Ooh wee. Now he's going to have to play Alabama, Auburn, LSU, Mississippi State. It's going to be a tough road to plow.

You know what my feeling is? He is capable. It's not like me looking at him and saying, 'Jimbo, you can't do it.' In three or four years he might be right there among them.

AP: Are you pleased with FSU's hiring of Willie

Taggart

Bowden: Florida State is where he always wanted to be. He was raised in Florida. He always wanted to coach at Florida State. Only being at Oregon for one year, that ain't good. It's like he said, this is the only job I would have come for.

AP: I understand he called you right when he got the job.

Bowden: He sure did. ... If I can help him in any way, I'll sure do it. He's a kid who is raised in Florida and he watched the 'Bobby Bowden Show' every Sunday.

AP: What's your take on Nick Saban and Alabama winning five national titles since 2009 and Saban winning his sixth?

Bowden: He's making himself the best ever. Is he right now? It's not for me to say. But, dadgum, when he finishes his career, there might not be anyone even close. He just tied my favorite coach, Bear Bryant.

AP: How well did you know Bryant?

Bowden: I knew him more than he knew me. I coached at Samford, which is 50 miles from Tuscaloosa. Bear went to Tuscaloosa in 1958. I went to Samford in 1959. He was winning national championships and I was learning. I would go and talk to Gene Stallings. Those coaches really taught me a lot of football. I feel I learned most of my football going to Tuscaloosa.

AP: That's a mouthful, saying Saban is in position to be the best ever.

Bowden: You got a lot of Alabama people who think he's the best ever now. I hate to give up the other guy (Bryant), but every time he wins one, it makes me see it more and more.

AP: You've said you like the College Football Playoff's fourteam format and that you don't think it should go to eight. That said, does unbeaten Central Florida have a legitimate gripe about not having the opportunity to be in the playoff?

Bowden: Yeah, I think they do, although the system doesn't allow it. But if I were them I'd be yelling just like them, celebrating an undefeated season and a national championship—though it won't be recognized by the NCAA.

AP: What do you think of Scott Frost going from UCF to Nebraska?

Bowden: I thought that was a great move. Oooh, I was so impressed with what he did. Golly. Here is Auburn, they beat the No. 1 team in the nation (Georgia and Alabama), then Frost beats them. That ain't supposed to happen, but it happened. I was so glad when he decided to come here.

AP: You're receiving an award named after Tom Osborne. What does that mean to you?

Bowden: I wouldn't have come if it weren't him. I think so highly of him. He and I thought a whole lot alike — off the field. I've always admired him.

AP: You won national titles in 1993 and 1999. What do you remember about that 18-16 Orange Bowl win over Osborne that gave you your first one? (The game ended with officials putting one second back on the clock, allowing Nebraska to attempt a field goal that it missed.)

Bowden: I'll never forget it. No. 1, the game is over and we finally won a national championship. So all our people start going out on the field. I went to shake hands with Tom. Before I get to him, the official comes up and says, 'Coach Bowden, sorry, we have to add another second.' I said where is the ball? He told me. I'm thinking their kicker can't kick it that far. So just a few minutes later, the official comes up and says, 'Coach Bowden, I'm sorry, we have to move it up 5 yards.' Now we're in his range. Oh, God, they ain't going to let us win it.

AP: Did you know that loss is credited with being the impetus for Nebraska's run of three national titles over the next four years?

Bowden: I hope it was. Great job. Just a fantastic job. And that hadn't been done until right now. All of the talk is Alabama and what Saban has done. You realize 20-30 years ago Tom Osborne did the same thing, won three out of four. Unheard of.

Rotary program for Wednesday to feature KHN

According to its web site, KHN is an ideal setting for working artists looking for a respite to concentrate on their work. Since 2001, the residency has hosted working artists each year which include a combination of visual artists, writers, composers, and interdisciplinary artists from across the country and around the world.

Olson said there have been 900 artists in residence at KHN. Each year, Olson said about 400 applicants vie for 70 residence opportunities that last from two to eight weeks.

The feedback from the artists has been almost universally positive. Artists have noted Nebraska City as a friendly community and have been pleased with the support from the center and the inspirational scenery of the area.

Looking back at 2017, Olson said she really hasn't done anything as director to transform any aspect of KHN.

Olson said that the organization has an impressive legacy and noted that she hopes to add to that.

Last year, Olson said she worked at fine tuning a few "behind the scenes" type of things. The previous KHN director had set the schedule for the gallery, so there wasn't that much to do in that aspect of the operation.

This year, Olson will be filling a gallery schedule. And that's a new experience.

"Being a curator and setting up gallery shows is not a hat I have worn in the past," Olson said.

The efforts for 2018 are well under way with two shows already on the docket.

Currently, the gallery is displaying the quilting work of Dr. Carol Falk.

Falk passed away in 2009 and was posthumously inducted into the Nebraska State Quilt Guild Hall of Fame in 2017.

Falk's work has been displayed in Nebraska City in the past but Olson said that she looked forward to having the quilts in the gallery so that community members would have another opportunity to see them and also to provide inspiration for the artists in residence.

This week's noon Rotary program at the Eagles Club in Nebraska City will provide a great opportunity for residents to meet Holly McAdams Olson, director of the Kimmel Harding Nelson Center for the Arts (KHN).

Olson, who came on board at KHN almost a year ago, said she's looking forward to meeting with members of the community on Wednesday and to answering any questions they might have about KHN.

For about 13 years, Olson said she lived in Union and commuted to Omaha where she worked with non-profit groups in arts administration. The KHN directorship seemed ideal back in early 2017 and Olson said she continues to be thrilled with her work.

Everyday, when she turns south out of Union toward Nebraska City instead of north towards Omaha, she said, it's a good feeling.

"I am delighted to be here," Olson said.
"It's a gem of a program."

Coming up in the gallery is the work of two artists from Lincoln who were residents at KHN last year.

The rest of the calendar is a work in progress, Olson said.

In her efforts to fill gallery shows, Olson said she will be watching for what's happening in the arts community in Lincoln, Omaha, the state of Nebraska and beyond.
