June 2012

Greetings District 7780 Rotarians!

Thank You all for what has been one of the most enjoyable and rewarding experiences of a lifetime! Judy and I appreciate the reception we have received from all of the clubs and all of the love and support for Rotary we have observed throughout the District this past year. We began our journey hoping to raise awareness for the needs of our youth throughout the world and we have been simply amazed at everything that you as Rotarians have accomplished this year.

Thanks to our hardworking District Conference Committee, we were fortunate to share a few of the highlight moments of the year at the Harraseeket Inn. As all of our well traveled "Moose on the Loose" began to gather in the House of Friendship to display the results of our hard working clubs, we were able to enjoy thirty wonderful photo layouts of their exploits. Thanks to all who participated in the "Moose on the Loose" competition, the auction, the balloon raffle and the bidding on MaxiMoose, we were able to raise $8874 for our Rotary Foundation.

We were so pleased at the wonderful sharing of the talents of our "New Generation" of young leaders which was kicked off with the Yarmouth Middle School musicians and then was followed up by our 4-Way Test winner, our young vocalist from Lincoln Academy, Miss Maine, and our own personal inspiration for the Conference Theme, Friends Forever team member Louise Madden from Carrickfergus, Northern Ireland. The outstanding group of Free-port Interactors created a long lasting memorial of the occasion with their U.S. Map project painted on the playground at Morse Elementary School.

We were so inspired by the wonderful projects we heard about at the Conference, Rotaplast, Give a Hand, the Vermont Grant, H2O for Life, Karl's Kids, the Literacy Project Success and Promoting Public Image.

We also shed a few tears of joy this past week as we got to meet Genesis, the six month old beautiful youngster who just came through open heart surgery thanks to the Gift of Life program. A very special day!

We join our Rotary International President Kalyan Banerjee as we urge all of you to continue to "Reach Within to Embrace Humanity,

Multiplying the Polio Plus Effect

One of the fabulous things about attending a Rotary International Convention is the opportunity to hear from the most senior, tuned-in minds in Rotary, sometimes (as in the Q&As) off-script and unrehearsed. And so, my most significant takeaway from this year's Convention in Bangkok -- not that you will find it as a formal agenda item -- is that the "Future Vision" plan of The Rotary Foundation, which takes effect here in this District and worldwide in July 2013, is a lot more than a new way to do humanitarian grants. It's a rethink of what it is that Rotary does, and a promise to ensure that what we does creates maximum impact.

From the beginning, we have been talking about Future Vision as a way to streamline processes and push decision-making down to the districts while, presumably, saving costs. Future Vision is all that. But Future Vision - new Foundation processes coming at a time when we are feeling the success of the Polio Plus campaign -- is turning into a whole lot more.

After all, Polio Plus successfully pulled together what it is that makes Rotary unique -- 1.2 committed members located around the globe -- with the financial prowess of the Gates Foundation, the technical know-how of the WHO and UNICEF, and the political will of governments around the world. It's been a magic formula that has saved hundreds of thousands of lives and turned into the largest healthcare campaign in history.

And there are so many other needs out there that could be addressed with similar global partnerships.

That's where Future Vision comes in. Through Future Vision, Rotary hopes to combine our best asset -- our 1.2 million members -- with the expertise and deep pockets of other partners in order to solve myriad humanitarian goals. Imagine tackling multiple humanitarian needs with the assets we've pulled together for Polio Plus. Imagine the power of the "we're this close" campaign tuned to everything Rotary stands for. Imagine being part of a worldwide movement that not only makes change but is known and respected worldwide for the change we do.

We've always said that everything in Rotary starts at the Club level and percolates up. But let's face it: A club or district can't connect with a USAID or a Gates Foundation. That takes the commitment and outreach of Rotary International itself, and that's where Future Vision's "packaged grants" as well as our existing Rotarian Action Groups come in: Rotary International will partner with a world-class organization that has the deep pockets and technical know-how to work on a humanitarian concern, but which lacks the human capital to make it happen. Rotary will supply that human capital through "packaged grants" which make it possible for any of us, Rotarians committed to the cause, to volunteer to provide the legwork and the boots on the ground to solve the humanitarian problem.

Just as we have been doing so successfully with Polio Plus.

Despite the bigness of this vision, Rotary also remains committed to the ideal that change happens one life at a time. So clubs and districts that want to continue to be involved with relatively small grants and scholarships can continue to do so. There will still be District Grants that will involve less paperwork and fewer restrictions to do good both at home or abroad.

But here's the catch: The finances of the Rotary Foundation are only as big as our giving, and let's face it: There's always more need than money available.

For that reason, 7780's District Foundation Committee and the District Transition Committee that is working on plans for Future Vision are putting together a Foundation Seminar next October that will provide all Rotarians in this District the opportunity to chime in and help determine which Foundation programs we would most like to support.

You'll be hearing more about this planning event in coming months, but the bottomline is this: The Rotary Foundation is OUR Foundation. How we wish to invest the funds we donate to humanitarian good is the decision -- and the responsibility -- of all of us.

I look forward to working with all of you on crafting our humanitarian goals – and making them real.

--Marty Peak Helman, District Governor-elect

Marilyn Kellogg, Exeter Rotary Club Vision Champion, reported that she and Club President, Ken Bailey, recently made an upbeat PowerPoint presentation to their club entitled "What is it to be an Exeter Rotarian?" The first half of the program provided facts on what the club members contribute in terms of hours volunteered, organizations served, and funds raised and donated. The second half focused on specific ideas generated in the visioning session in the areas of community, vocational, international, and club service; fundraising; foundation and membership. Marilyn commented on what has been achieved in each area. The next step was to assign the various goals to the appropriate committees so that they could work towards accomplishing them. This was an effective way to energize club members to continue working towards the vision.
