46% of teens aged 13-17 have experienced cyberbullying [Pew Research]

ReThink Citizens

ReThink is dedicated to conquering cyberbullying and stopping hate.

ReThink was invented by Trisha Prabhu at age 13 after she learned about the silent pandemic of cyberbullying. Prabhu went on to present her ReThink technology and spread anti-cyberbullying awareness on many stages, including the TED stage, the White House, and even ABC's hit TV show "Shark Tank"! She and her technology have also received numerous accolades from Forbes, Harvard, MIT, Google, and more.

Today, the social entrepreneur, Rhodes scholar, and global advocate has grown her patented ReThink technology into a global movement to cultivate a new generation of responsible digital citizens.

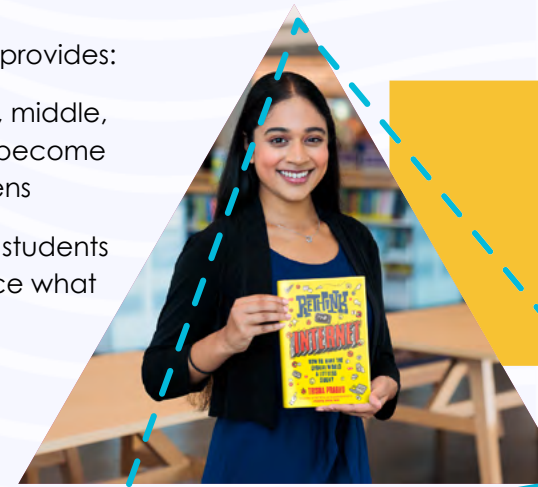

So, what exactly is ReThink?

ReThink is a FREE app that helps youth pause, review, and ReThink before they say something harmful or offensive online. However, ReThink's mission doesn't stop with its technology offering. We've also created a FREE digital wellness educational program for youth that imparts the digital literacy and anti-hate know-how today's students need.

Our FREE "digital wellness curriculum" provides:

- 18 Targeted lessons for elementary, middle, and high school-aged students to become responsible, intentional digital citizens
- A teacher/facilitator guide to help students further reflect, analyze, and practice what they learn
- Key concepts and explanations to make them experts at recognizing in real-time, understanding and preventing cyberbullying
- A student workbook filled with information and activities designed for engagement and real-world applicability including strategies and techniques to become an Upstander to cyberbullying
- Curriculum helps students build healthier relationships with their devices, e.g., better manage screen time, think before typing, and more

Today, we invite you to join the ReThink movement and download our FREE ReThink "digital wellness curriculum" for your students! With our program, you can help your students become responsible, safe digital citizens.
