Global Grant in Nepal

Clean Cooking Gas and Nutrition (CCGN) Project--$43,000

- Biogas commonly known as GOBAR GAS is a clean natural source of energy in rural areas with no cost. Human waste, animal dung and waste food supply biogas plant, and biogas is produced through anaerobic digestion process. The gas is 55-70% methane which can be used for cooking, heating and lighting.
- Environmentally planned cowsheds enable collection of cattle urine which otherwise remains unused as it gets lost through evaporation. The urine is very rich of nitrogen.
- Poly-house style greenhouse will be a training center and product development center enabling crop expansion and testing of new fertilizer and pesticide products.
- Joint project in Damgade, Thaha Municipality with RCs of Lakewood, District 5020 in Washington State and Kathmandu Metro in conjunction with GG2238159 WASH project.
