Have you visited the new online store at www.cosmopolitan.org? When using a browser other than Edge, making your purchase should be an easy experience. The store offers exciting new Cosmo merchandise including name badges for your club members, so be sure to visit today! Feel free to contact ED Tracy if you need assistance at check out.

The entry form for the International President's Courage Award now is available at www.cosmopolitan.org. To access the form, click Resources then scroll to Awards Entry Forms. All clubs applying for the Courage award should complete and submit an entry form per instructions on the form.

Many of us have, at one time or another, made purchases from Amazon.com. But did you know that Amazon offers a way that your purchase can benefit the Cosmopolitan Diabetes Foundation (CDF)? Simply log onto smile.amazon.com and select Cosmopolitan Diabetes Foundation as the charity of your choice. When you do, Amazon will make a donation to the CDF. There is no cost to participate. This is a very simple way for Cosmos to show their support for the CDF. Log on and sign up today!

Nominations are being accepted for positions on the 2017-2018 Executive Committee. If you are a dedicated Cosmo and meet the criteria to be elected, please consider serving Cosmopolitan as an executive officer. Contact Nominations Chairman Richard Gordon (scissork@gmail.com) for more information.

We are signing up new members almost daily at Cosmopolitan, and club presidents and secretaries now are authorized to enter a new member's information directly on the website instead of sending paper registration forms to International. Visit www.cosmopolitan.org, log in, click Member Area, click For Clubs, click Membership Lists, then click Add New Member. It is a quick and easy process, but if you need assistance, please contact ED Tracy for help.

Website chairman John LiCausi and Rockford Club President Bill Redig recently hosted an informative website webinar with moderator Jeffrey Laforteza of ClubRunner.
