President Becky Kerr talked about the money we have given to Diabetes Fund and to local community projects.

She said that there were no upcoming events at the Civic Center.

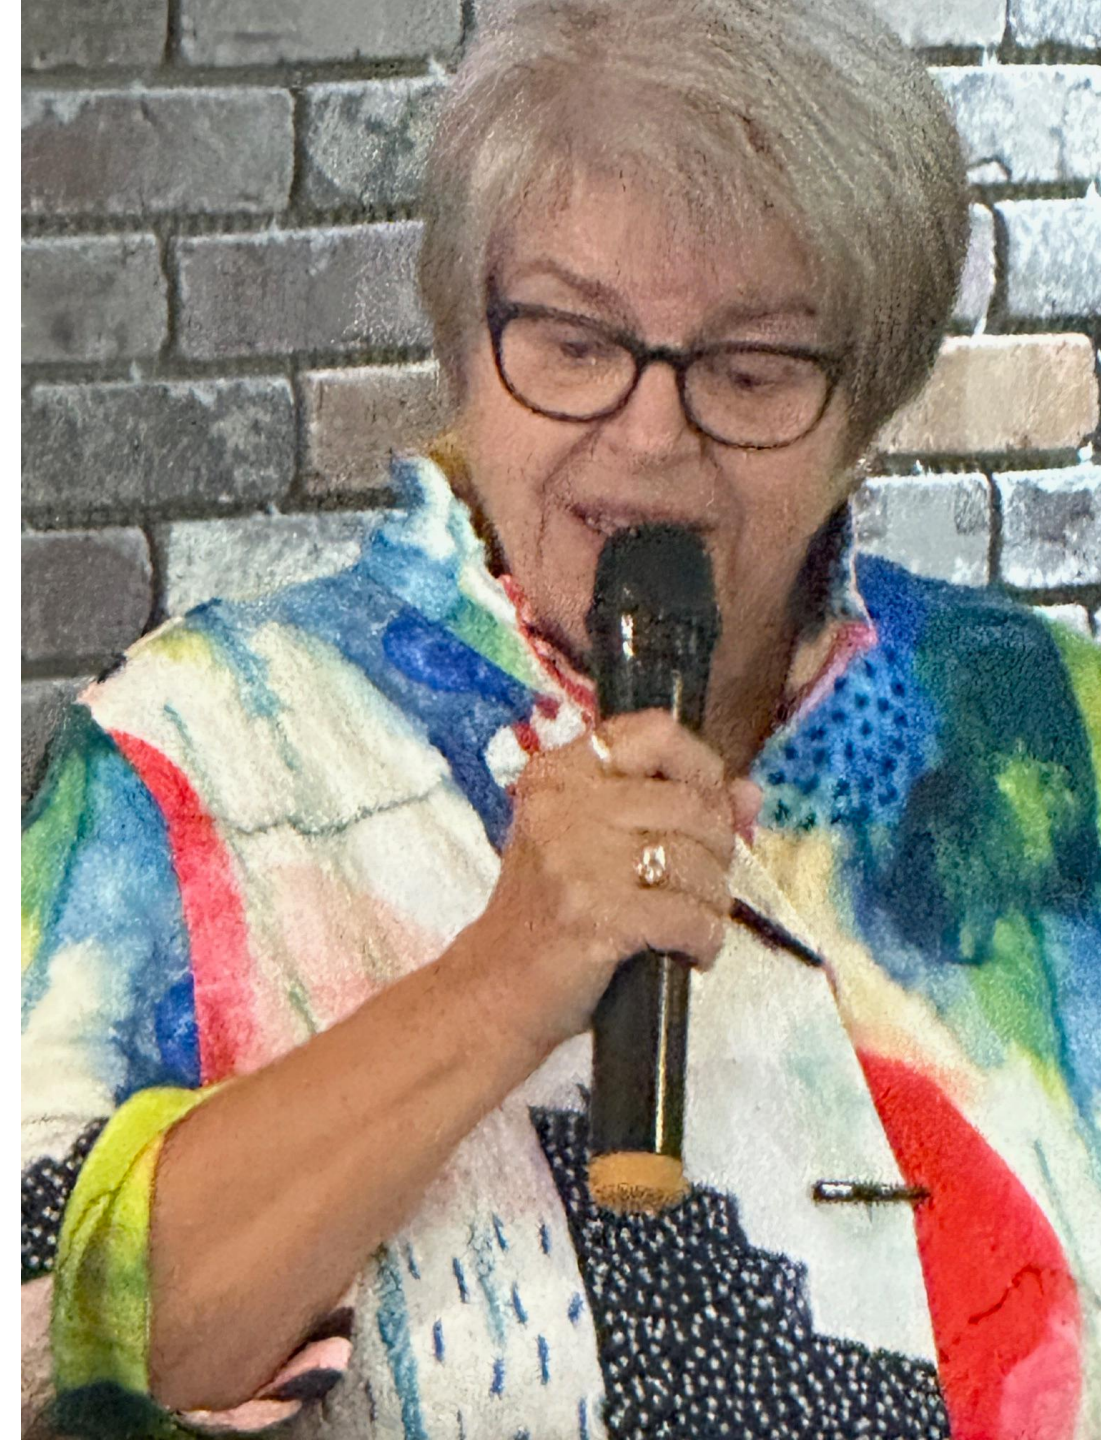

President Becky Kerr introduced Beth Davis talking about End Of Life, things to do and things not to do for those people in the last three months of their life.

I help people who are beyond, or have stopped treatment, plan the end of their lives and deaths. I provide people and their families information, advocacy, and emotional, spiritual, and non-medical physical support before, during and after death.

I grew up the oldest daughter in a family from a small, rural community in South Dakota. My roots stem from hard-working people, open spaces, and two degrees of separation. In 1975, I set a clear intention to live a conscious life following a spiritual emergence (commonly referred to as a nervous breakdown). I have explored world religions, new thought, and all kinds of human potential movements and processes.

A person with long, straight, light brown hair is sitting in a field of tall grass, looking out over a landscape at sunset. The person is wearing a dark, long-sleeved top. The background shows a soft, hazy sky with a low sun, and distant hills or mountains. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

What would
your life be like if...

you were listened to deeply?

Within each of us is an essence, a core
that is connected to pure love, vast
wisdom, and deep compassion.

you were supported without judgement or advice?

That connection is often clouded by life experiences and the mixed messages we receive from people, culture, and the different environments in which we find ourselves.

What would
your life be
like if...

death was a natural part of living?

Why?

I'm a mature woman who has lived consciously through many life lessons and I've gained not just experience but wisdom through it all. I know the power of being heard. I believe that we hold the answers if we can find the right questions. I know that it is not in my power to fix anyone. I can, however, create environments that support the emergence of courage, healing, and truth. I hold a bachelor's degree in Psychology and Religion and I am a certified End of Life Doula and self-proclaimed Life Doula.

Life can be challenging.

We experience times when we don't feel understood or heard, and feel unsure about what's next. Being listened to deeply, without judgement or advice can make a difference in how you process these key moments in life. I'm Beth Walz Davis, and I believe I can be that someone for you

Vision Retreat Host

Vision Retreats are designed for individuals in small group settings to explore together what is holding them back from reaching their greatest potential. The goal is to create a vision for the future based on a client's emerging discoveries about their life.

Life Doula

Life is not a game. Most people don't need a coach. However, someone who listens deeply, reflects honestly, connects resources, supports and encourages, and believes in you can make all the difference when times are difficult.

End of Life Doula

Dying is a natural part of life. I support people who are terminally ill and their loved ones through the sacred process of dying. I help clients make a plan and can serve as a resource as they transition into the last chapter of life.

The background of the image is a photograph of the Sioux Falls State Capitol building at dusk. The building is a grand, classical-style structure with a prominent central dome and a portico with columns. The sky is a deep blue, and the building's lights are on, creating a warm glow. In the foreground, there are trees and a street with a few cars.
