Speaker Biography:

Without his knowledge, his father entered him in a photography competition hosted by the Montreal newspaper "La Presse" in 1977, and he won first prize. From then on he began to take a serious interest in photography.

Maurice Henri is an internationally known photographer and has been creating portrait, stock, advertising, commercial and industrial photography professionally since 1988. He has also participated in many photographic projects, as host & producer of a television series FOTO that aired nationally and received many nominations for excellence in education and arts, he is the founder and director of Cameras for Healing (Africa, Colombia, Haiti and Canada) and he is the founder and director of Photo Moncton International Photography Festival.

His work has been featured nationally and internationally in magazines, books and during interviews. His clients include advertising agencies, design studios, independent industry professionals, art directors, art buyers, businesses of all varieties, private and corporate buyers and collectors in Canada, England, Africa, the United States and South America.

His exhibits of the people and their life in Africa received critical and popular acclaim internationally and is now included in a permanent collection with the African American Museum and Center for Education and Applied Arts in New York.

He is also the recipient of The Order of Moncton, the Rotary International's Paul Harris Fellowship Award and the YMCA's International Peace Medallion, in recognition of his efforts.
